RAMMED CAR'S OPERATOR THROWN THROUGH WINDOW

Motorman A. B. Harbert, 902 Crawford street, Duquesne, operator of the Homestead-East Liberty one-man car, was hurled through the window of his cab by the impact of the run-away Homestead Park car today. He suffered a broken leg, lacerations and severe shock. This photograph shows him in bed in Homestead Hospital.

Today

Gandhi's Cow.
Coolidge's Speech.
Pulitzer's Horse.
And Mayer's Radio Tip.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

BRITAIN'S 300,000,000 Hindu subjects followed their prophet Gandhi into and through many kinds of foolishness. They believed him when he advised hand-weaving to compete with British looms, and admired him when he starved himself in a British prison.

They turn against him now be cause he has caused a suffering sick cow to be killed and put out of hopeless misery.

HINDUS worship the cow as a goddess. Hindu goddesses have taken the cow shape, as Jupiter took the shape of a bull.

Also the cow gives milk, like a mother.

You would not kill your sick mother, no matter how sick.

Therefore, you must not kill a sick cow.

THOUSANDS of miserable animals die slowly, starving, in India, and no one will kill them. When the British order police to put suffering creatures out of their misery, the population longs to rebel, and would, if it had the energy.

No wonder a handful of meat-eating, beer and whisky-drinking British can handle and keep down 300,000,000 Hindus.

THOSE Hindus that turn on Gandhi for destroying a suffering animal, will cut the throats of a thousand goats in their temple yard because the blood pleases some god.

And they hate the British for forbidding "Suttee," the practice of burning young widows alive, with the bodies of their old husbands.

Whoever can get excited about "the wrongs of India" gets excited easily.

MR. JAMES writes from Europe about America and Coolidge in a way that must be applauded by all the debt dodging nations. The New York Times, that prints his writing, should be paid advertising rates for "full position, next to pure reading matter."

MR. JAMES says that Europe recognizes this country's right to build any kind of navy, which you'll admit is very sweet of Europe.

But he and Europe evidently think that Coolidge and the country that elected him should be ashamed of themselves.

THANK heaven for Mr. James, and the Times prints his stuff. It will stimulate, here, preparation for what Europe would do if it dared.

Fortunately, just now, Europe feels toward this country as those Hindus feel toward Britain.

Or as that able citizen, the late Joseph Pulitzer, felt toward a horse that he rode along the upper Corniche road, back of Beaulieu, on the Mediterranean. The horse persisted in dancing on the edge of a precipice, to which a passing hay wagon had forced it.

"Damn you," said Pulitzer almost blind, "I wish I dared hit you on the head."

That's just how Europe feels toward us and especially toward Mr. Coolidge, dancing on the brink of war.

THE stock market continues to boil along, while conservatism holds up a warning finger, and those that failed to "get aboard" hold up several warning fingers. Five million shares sold yesterday. Radio Company jumped up 30 points for the day.

When Mr. Mayer, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, advised all Hollywood to buy that stock last winter it was selling under 90. It closed yesterday at 331, up more than $200 a share. Mr. Mayer bought only a few thousand shares, because his motto is "Don't gamble."

SORROW of the singed beard is rooted in the fact that they never know what will happen next.

Yesterday, for instance, the Du Pont Company gave each stockholder three and a half shares for one, and an extra dividend of $3.75 a share. The stock dividend is no meaningless gesture.

It means that next year stockholders will get in dividends seventeen million dollars more than they get this year.

That sort of thing makes bears sympathize with Dante characters on whom flakes of fire fell eternally.

Mr. Hoover starts on his South American trip and the Mississippi starts on a rampage.

Several lives and several million dollars have been lost already.

"Old Man River" may shorten Mr. Hoover's journey.

It must be a pleasant combination to be a President, with power, and an engineer knowing how.

THE latest eruption of Mount Etna "destroyed" ten thousand acres of fertile Sicilian land.

Frost, rain and sunshine will crumble the lava to dust.

Weeds will grow, soil will form. Earth worms will chew it up, and those acres will be fertile again, and Etna will be a dead volcano.

It will take some time, thousands of centuries.

There is no hurry, for according to Prof. Millikan, men will live on this planet for a thousand million years longer.

SWINDLER HITS 20 BANKS

County detectives today began a search for what was probably the world's fastest working swindler, a man who, they said, had swindled 20 banks in Allegheny county of $87.50 each, within 48 hours.

His high pressure operations were reported to the sleuths by officials of the Union Trust Company, on which all the bogus checks were drawn. Bank officials said officers of about 20 fellow institutions had complained to them.

The method of all good mass producers, uniformity of operations, characterized the check artist's work. His checks were each for $87.50. Each was protectographed. Signatures were one of three, "T. N. Nesbit," "L. N. Nesbit" or "E. F. Harris." There was a list of impressive indorsements on the back of each.

County Detective John Burke, who investigated, described his potential quarry's methods as those of an accomplished actor. This was how he deceived those canny men behind the barred windows:

A neat young man, sans hat, sans overcoat, rushed up to the window.

"I'm in a hurry; the boss is waiting" were his words.

And he got the money.

Jackie Coogan Scores Hit on London Stage

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—The film fame of Jackie Coogan insured a big audience before his first appearance on the London stage last night, but it had to be seen whether he would make good to the satisfaction of his English admirers. Judging from the reception he got, he did. The Paladium Theater was densely crowded with an audience which was thoroughly pleased with Jackie's dialogue with his father and his recitations. He was given numerous curtain calls.

Rochester Veteran Of Civil War Dies

ROCHESTER, Pa., Nov. 20.—Dr. Harrison J. Chandler, 88, dentist, commander of Rochester Post No. 183, Grand Army Republic, died yesterday at his home here. He served in the Civil War in the Curtin Rifles, Company F, Tenth Regiment, P. R. C., and Company K, Seventy-sixth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers. He was wounded five times. He was a charter member of the First Presbyterian Church. He leaves his widow, Ada M. Chandler, and one son, Harrison, Jr., Detroit, Mich.

Bus Kills Clairton Boy, Hunt Driver

Joseph Monasky, 11, of 732 Sixth street, Clairton, was killed today when he was struck by a Monongahela Valley bus in the street near his home, according to the coroner's report. Clairton police reported to the coroner they had not obtained the driver's name. They were ordered to learn his identity and to have him brought before the coroner, to be held under bond pending the inquest.

Boulder Dam Report Given to Coolidge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—A summary of the survey of Boulder Dam ordered by Congress at the last session has reached President Coolidge for study in preparing his annual message, it was announced at the White House today. Its contents will not be made public because the complete report will not be ready until about the time Congress meets.

Heavy Cold Confines Judge Cohen to Home

Judge Josiah Cohen, 57, is confined to his home, 905 Maryland avenue, with a severe cold. He left the Court House last Friday with a slight cold and his condition has not improved. Today it was reported that a nurse had been called to attend the aged jurist.

Snow Falls Here, But Warm Wave Is Forecast

Snow flurries gave a touch of winter to Pittsburgh today. It was all a mistake. Warmer weather is in store. The cold wave sweeping out of the Northwest has been sidetracked.

Tonight the mercury is expected to descend to 30 and then start mounting. Sub-zero temperatures reported in the Northwest yesterday and which were expected here tomorrow, have been shunted away from this district.

Stocks Hit New High, Then Drop

60 HURT AS CARS CRASH

STOCKS HIT NEW HIGH, SWAMP EXCHANGE, THEN DECLINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Speculation again smashed all records on the New York Stock Exchange today when the most phenomenal scramble for stocks ever witnessed carried total sales over the 7,000,000-share mark for the first time and tossed prices of a wide assortment of issues up $10 to $63 per share.

The ticker fell nearly two hours behind the market before the close and was not expected to record the final transaction until after 5 o'clock. The day's sales were far greater than last Friday's previous record total of 6,714,400 shares.

Stocks of a total value estimated at well in excess of $500,000,000 changed hands. It was only five months ago that total sales first crossed the 5,000,000-share mark.

MARKET REACTS

Heavy profit-taking in the final hour diminished most gains and resulted in a number of net losses. DuPont, after touching a record price of $503, up $63, fell back around $490. Radio, after touching a new peak price of $368, up $36.50, closed at $358. Montgomery Ward, Sears-Roebuck and Packard Motor closed with net losses of $3 to $4. Allied Chemical, Canadian Pacific, Johns Manville, Erie, Union Pacific, Curtiss and Wright Aero and Chile Copper were among shares closing $2 to about $6 higher.

Additional closing quotations were: General Motors, $2.12.25, up 25 cents; U. S. Steel, $169, off $1.37½; Chrysler, $129, off $1; General Electric, $156.37½, up $2.62½ Anaconda Copper, $112, up $2.37; American Smelting, $280.50, off $2.75; Pan-American B, $57.50, up $3, and Greene Cananea Copper, $166.75, up $3.50.

Bears fled in a mild panic at the beginning of trading today. Radio soared in the first half hour, and reports of a "private settlement" for the unfortunate bears, who have seen its tremendous rise in the past two weeks, were current in the street.

FORNEY BARRED TO PREVENT IMMUNITY

Al Forney, racketeer suspect, whose hitherto unexplained visit to the Federal Building yesterday and today aroused great interest, will not go before the federal grand jury as a witness—at any rate he will not be subpenaed.

Fearing a decision of the United States Supreme Court might result in Forney procuring immunity in Quarter Sessions Court here—should he be convicted in the county's graft cases—the Federal District Attorney's office declared his story wasn't important enough to take the chance.

The first intimation that the government might seek to establish that near beer, which has been figuring in the North Side rum conspiracy trial testimony, had been "shot" came today.

"Did you serve your beer in the same way in which it was received?" asked Government Counsel Ralph H. Smith of Charles B. Sims, steward of the Malsi Club, 107 East Montgomery avenue, casting an inference

'NOT DRUNK,' SHOUTS VESTRIS INSPECTOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Capt. Edward Keane, Department of Commerce inspector of hulls, shouted a denial today that he had been intoxicated when he passed as seaworthy the steamer Vestris, which sank a week ago yesterday with a loss of more than 100 lives.

Capt. Keane was the first witness today at the investigation of the Vestris foundering being conducted by the United State Steamboat Inspection Service at the customs house.

The presiding officer read a letter dated November 14 and signed "Samuel Lawson." The letter was received by the Steamboat Inspection Service in an envelope on the flap of which was printed "United States Lines."

The letter contained charges that the inspection of the Vestris by Capt. Keane and an inspector of Men Adrift on Lake Reach Land Safely

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Three Cleveland men, who drifted helplessly all night aboard two barges in a gale on the lower end of Lake Erie, reached land safely early today when the boats washed ashore. The barges, the Coast Guard reported, went ashore near Bay View, south of this city. The men aboard, John Westo, Elmer Mackey and Enos Mackey, were taken to emergency hospital for treatment for exposure.

HOMESTEAD TROLLEY RUNS AWAY ON STEEP GRADE

More than 60 persons, mostly women and girls on their way to work, were injured, several seriously, in a crash of two one-man street cars at Eighth avenue and Amity street, Homestead.

A Homestead Park car, apparently out of control shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, dashed down the long, steep slope of Amity street, sped over an open derailing switch, jumped the tracks at the curve at Eighth avenue and struck a crowded Homestead-East Liberty car squarely in the middle. Cut almost in two, the latter car was hurled against a pole.

Homestead police detained James Palmer, of Fleet street, Rankin, the switchman, who was stationed at a derailing switch two blocks from the scene of the accident. He later was released. Palmer maintained he was at his post, but was ordered to get out of the road by the operator of the runaway car.

50 IN EACH CAR

With the crash about 50 passengers in each car were thrown into a heap and showered with shattered glass. A. B. Harbert, 902 Crawford street, Duquesne, operator of the Homestead-East Liberty car, was hurled through the front window of his cab and suffered a broken leg, lacerations and severe shock.

"I don't remember what happened," he said at the hospital.

RELIEF RUSHED

Ambulances of the Homestead and Braddock General hospitals, along with commandeered automobiles and the patrol wagon of the Homestead police were pressed into service in conveying the injured to the Homestead Hospital. Hospital authorities said they believed, after preliminary examination, that none was fatally hurt.

C. G. Benner, of Homestead, was operator of the Homestead Park car. He suffered severe cuts and bruises.

RIDER TELLS OF CRASH

Mrs. Mary Atkinson, of Homestead Park, a passenger on the runaway car, said Operator Benner evidently had lost control of his car before reaching the derailing switch.

"When the car reached the derailing switch, the motorman was using his airbrakes and was putting on the handbrakes," said Mrs. Atkinson. "He couldn't check the car's speed. He shouted to the switchmen, 'Get out of the way' and the switchman leaped back.

"We all felt that the car was out of control and that something was going to happen. Then the crash came."

The Amity street grade, nearly a mile-and-a-half long, has been regarded as a dangerous line, according to Homestead police. Several accidents have occurred, they said, as a result of the steep grade and failure of brakes to work.

Both of the street cars were of the low, all-steel, one-man type. The East Liberty car was shattered. The runaway car catapulted through its side, crushing roof and

MANY GIRLS AMONG CRASH CASUALTIES

Women and young girls, bound for work in East Liberty, comprised the larger part of the casualty list today after a Homestead Park car broke loose on the Amity street hill and ploughed into an East Liberty-Homestead car at Amity street and Eighth avenue, Homestead.

A list of the injured, compiled at the scene of the wreck and from hospital and emergency station records, follows:

The following injured are in Homestead Hospital.

BROTHERHOOD BANK PAYS NEW DIVIDEND

Twenty-five hundred depositors of the defunct Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company today received a second dividend of 15 per cent. A 70 per cent dividend previously had been paid.

"We expect to pay all depositors in full," said Frank W. Jackson, special deputy secretary of banking, in charge of liquidation of the Brotherhood Bank, which was closed two years ago after exposé of a big bond purchase swindle in which the bank's officers were victimized. They recently were acquitted, after court trial.

"There are some notes and realty to be disposed of," said Mr. Jackson, "and when this is done we expect to pay off depositors 100 per cent."

Deposits at the time the bank closed totaled $466,000.

floor and coming to a stop jammed against the opposite side.

Most of the women and girls in the East Liberty car were en route from their homes in the Homestead district to their places of employment in Squirrel Hill and East Liberty. Many of those on the Amity street line likewise were on their way to transfer to cars to bring them to Pittsburgh.

The following official "delayed car" report on the accident was made at the Rankin car barns:

"The car got beyond control of the operator between Tenth and Eleventh streets, Homestead. Derail was open."

This month was "No Accident Month" for all employes of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, it was said.

U. S. Grants Alien Workers Right Of Entry

DETROIT, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Federal Judge Charles C. Simons yesterday granted 61 aliens residing in Canadian border cities temporary injunctions restraining John L. Zurbrick, district director of immigration, from preventing them from commuting daily into this country to work. The petitioners were able to prove an immigration order denying them the commuting privilege was the only bar to their entry. Judge Simons has held previously that the order involved is invalid.

RAMMED CAR CUT IN TWO, REMOVED FOR PROBE

WRECKED CAR CUT IN HALF FOR REMOVAL

So badly wrecked was the one-man Homestead-East Liberty car that workmen had to cut the steel cab in half with acetylene torches to remove the wreckage after the Homestead crash today. Here is the front half of the trolley, back on the track at the corner where it was jammed against the curb when the Homestead Park car rammed it, injuring more than 60, mostly girls.

CAR TOWED AWAY IN TWO SECTIONS

The rear half of the Homestead-East Liberty car was towed away by Pittsburgh Railways motor trucks. Both sections were taken to the Rankin barns, where the Homestead Park car also was taken pending investigation by officials of the company. The runaway car was damaged only slightly.

TELL OF BEER SALES

that he was seeking to know if the "needle" has been applied.

This was immediately objected to by Attorney W. Cooke McKean, counsel for State Assemblyman Samuel J. Grenet, chairman of the Twenty-seventh Ward, on trial. Grenet is accused of largely owning the Fort Pitt Brewery, which supplied much of the near beer on the North Side, according to witnesses.

Forney yesterday was taken, under subpena, from his cell, where he is spending six months after pleading no defense in Federal Court to conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law. For three hours he was in the office of the U. S. District Attorney. He was accompanied by his attorney, H. D. Hirsch.

Again this morning he was taken from jail to the same office.

Apparently his story was wanted before the federal grand jury. After being quartered in Meyer's office all morning, Forney was returned to jail at noon.

HITCH IN PLANS

The hitch in the plan to have Forney appear before the federal grand jury developed partly through his apparent willingness to talk there, rather than in any other place or before any other official body.

The United States district attorney's office, aware of the law and the Supreme Court decision that might operate to Forney's benefit, moved cautiously.

The Supreme Court decision specified that an individual who testifies, under the prohibition law in answer to subpena, before a federal grand jury, shall be granted immunity in "every matter, circumstance or thing" concerning which he may testify—in any court. That is, in the absence of anything to upset the decision, Forney, even in the event of conviction on slot-machine charges in Common Pleas Court, would go free.

A former prohibition agent, Fred A. Stratman, was named as a seller of "good beer" by two witnesses today in the trial of the alleged North Side rum conspiracy case in Federal Court.

Ray Crummie, steward, and James F. Knight, chairman of the board of managers, Allegheny City Gymnasium Club, 719 East Ohio street, testified that Stratman, one of the 46 defendants on trial, had supplied the club with "first-class liquor."

The witnesses detailed their dealings with Stratman and identified canceled checks, which, they testified, had been paid to Stratman for liquor. Fred Grott, club secretary, gave similar testimony.

CHECKS IDENTIFIED

Following representatives of the gymnasium club, witnesses representing the Malsi Club accused Otto Heck, defendant on trial, as the individual who sold the club "good" whisky for $100 to $160 a case, retailed as high as 75 cents a drink, $6 a pint and $12 a quart. Checks said to have been paid to Heck by the steward received from the house committee were identified. The witnesses were William S. Peters, chairman of the house committee; Harold A. Rodkey, secretary of the club, and Sims, steward.

Forney's name was involved in the trial yesterday. Herbert A. Ohl, a defendant who has pleaded no defense, appearing as a government witness, told of meeting Forney in the Red Tile Inn, together with a man named Peters. Ohl was engaged in selling "bonded" whisky on the North Side for a year until 18 months ago, and was seeking trade, he said. Forney recommended that he negotiate with Peters, Ohl testified, and when he subsequently got in touch with Peters, who represented the Malso Club, on Montgomery avenue, North Side, according to the witness, he sold him some "bonded" whisky for the club.

Ohl said he charged the club $80 a case and that he paid $65 a case for his supposedly "bonded" booze. He mentioned other customers and said he obtained his whisky from "a man from Buffalo" and from "an Italian of Bridgeville."

Homestead Crash Recalls Wreck In Braddock

Today's street car crash in Homestead recalls the accident of July 22 last, when a shuttle car on the Bell and Jones avenue line ran wild down Library avenue, Braddock, dashed across the main thoroughfare, killed two little girls and injured 15 others. The car ended by diving into the store of Harry Levine, 814 Braddock avenue. Both members of the crew had alighted to change trolleys at the end of the line.

Retailers Honor New President

Harry E. Wilson, newly-elected president of the Retail Credit Men's Association, was honored last night at a "President's Night," reception in the Fort Pitt Hotel. About 200 members of the organization were present. C. A. Dunn was chairman of the committee in charge.

SUN-TELEGRAPH EDITORIAL GIVES HOPE TO PRISONER

From a prisoner in the Western Penitentiary, a student at an exclusive private school for boys, and men and women generally throughout Western Pennsylvania and nearby states, have come letters praising the full-page editorial, "Hope and Some Apothegms," in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph of Sunday, November 11.

Only two of the numerous commentators take exception to the editorial. These two, evidently atheists, gently chide The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for affirming belief in the existence of God.

The editorial concluded with a request that readers who liked articles of that character would write to the editor and say so. Many letters came in response — some typewritten on business stationery, others delicately written by hand, and still others consisting of just a few words roughly scrawled with lead pencil. An overwhelming majority were delighted with the editorial, and all were interested.

PRISONER'S LETTER

The man in the penitentiary wrote:

"If a word from a prisoner counts and bears any weight, I would say about your editorial: 'A veritable mental feast. Splendid indeed.'"

Some of the letter writers remarked that they found the editorial so stimulating and helpful that they passed it along to friends.

DENIES BEING DRUNK

boilers, consisted of the inspector enjoying a hearty breakfast on the ship and "swilling whisky and beer in the ship's bar."

"The inspectors left in the afternoon," the letter read, "with a certain weakness in their legs and each with a package under his arm."

DENIES USING LIQUOR

The letter concluded with the remarks that this was "the kind of murderers" that comprise the inspection service.

Capt. Keane was asked how much, if any, of this letter was true.

"The whole thing is the most outrageous lie I ever heard," he said. "I am the fourth generation of my family which has never touched a drop of any stimulant."

Keane's anger over the intimation of intoxication was so great that he waved his clenched fist as he testified.

Examiner D. N. Hoover said an effort would be made to bring Lawson into the inquiry to testify and that United States District Attorney Tuttle, who is conducting another investigation, had promised his co-operation.

"I don't think he will ever get before you if I find him first," cried the belligerent witness.

James Scott, saloon mate on the Vestris, who was starting on his fourth round trip to South America when the ship sank, testified today that a door in the side of the ship always leaked when there was stormy weather.

Frederick Sorenson, a ship's officer, who was a second-class passenger on the Vestris, categorically denied statements credited to him in the newspapers when he arrived here on a rescue ship, in which the blame for the disaster was laid at the door of the Vestris officers and especially of Capt. Carey, who sank with his command.

At the suggestion of newspaper men covering the hearing, it was decided to call reporters who interviewed Sorenson when he arrived.

Capt. Keane told in detail of his inspection of the Vestris, an annual inspection completed several days before the steamer left on its ill-fated voyage in what some of the survivors have called an unseaworthy condition.

He said that he found everything that was his responsibility to inspect in good condition. He mentioned particularly the coal ports and the half doors in the side of the ship through which the crew enters and leaves while the ship is at its pier.

Officers of the Vestris have testified at the federal hearing being conducted by United States Attorney Tuttle that water poured into the ship through both the coal ports and the half doors.

LIFEBOATS APPROVED

Capt. Keane said his inspection of the Vestris covered four days, during which he thoroughly examined lifeboats and their equipment and the life preservers. He declared the 12 lifeboats he had inspected and which were ample to take care of passengers and crew were in first class condition.

The inspector's testimony was given before Dickerson N. Hoover, supervising inspector general. Thomas J. Padarell, assistant United States attorney representing Federal Attorney Charles H. Tuttle was delegated to examine the witnesses for the government.

Spray From Stirring of Graft Pool

The bar was on the second floor, the gymnasium was on the third, and very few members ever got past the second set of steps, John Knights, of the Allegheny City Gymnasium Club, testified today in the federal rum trial. Only a few of the members ever took advantage of the opportunity to take off any poundage that might have been added by good beer, or to keep in shape generally, John related.

The price of a drink of whisky in the Malsi Club: 75 cents! a witness said.

When the Boswells of the prohibition era set pen to paper they should write opposite the name of Charles Standfast this terse quotation:

"Labels don't mean nothing."

Mr. Standfast, young, aggressive proprietor of a hotel at East Robinson and Sandusky streets, was telling all about booze in the Federal investigation of North Side conditions. In those few words Mr. Standfast conveyed the impression that the label on the $12 quart bottle may spell "Golden Wedding" or "William Penn," but might more correctly say "Poison Moonshine."

Mr. Standfast admitted selling whisky of dubious quality in his place.

All is not honey in the moonshine business. Felix Semask, Ridge avenue dispenser, testified he went bankrupt.

It was revealed by Witness Andy Kimmell that the Trombone Quartet of the Federal Circle practiced each Friday night in the Circle's North Side quarters. The boys chipped in to pay for the moonshine, Mr. Kimmel said.

A new, unidentified beer salesman entered the case. One witness testified he bought his schooner stuff from "Dago Joe."

Nick Batz probably didn't understand the question, but when he was asked for his address he replied, "North Side Gas House."

The multitude of foreign names makes things rather difficult for the court crier who page witnesses. Even Judge Gibson smiled when a crier cried through the lobbies for Nick Zubzooski, who turned out to be Mr. Jawinski.

It is fast becoming apparent that our bootleggers do not have the same confidence in their wares that the customers do. Witness Herbert Ohl, who admitted selling beer and whisky, said of some of the whisky: "It was supposed to be good stuff—but I don't know."

CLERK STOLE COURT CASH, CHARGE

An information charging embezzlement was preferred against M. J. Sartory, chief clerk in the desertion and non-support office of the County Court, today by Chief George W. Murren, of the county detectives.

The information was made before Alderman Thomas D. Jones in connection with irregularities discovered in the office through an investigation started by Judge Richard A. Kennedy. Sartory appeared before the alderman, waived a hearing and furnished $10,000 bond.

No information was made against Robert S. Holt, a clerk in the same office, who, with Sartory, was discharged by Judge Kennedy after "I-O-U" notes signed by the two men were found in place of $13,500, which had been taken from office funds. It is understood that Holt has promised to make restitution. The date for the hearing before Jones has not yet been set.

NO COVERING UP

Judge Kennedy stated that there had been no attempt to hide the defalcation. The judge yesterday ordered the two men dismissed and notified a surety company, which is responsible for $10,000 of the shortage. R. L. Kincaid was appointed to fill Sartory's position and Case Foster was named to succeed Holt.

The investigation began a few days ago when reports of the irregularities reached Judge Kennedy. He said that three other clerks, who were involved, made restitution, their notes amounting to less than $100. Their names are withheld and they are kept in their respective positions.

Judge Kennedy said he notified other judges and representatives of the bonding company as well as the men involved. The men freely admitted having taken the money, Judge Kennedy said, and replaced it with their notes. The office is maintained solely for the collection and payment of alimony.

Grove City Postoffice To Make First Class

GROVE CITY, Pa., Nov. 20.—Receipts from the Christmas holiday rush, will push the local postoffice into the first-class division, Postmaster O. J. Firm announced. A year ago the local postoffice fell short $40, of the $40,000 business necessary to advance its classification. This year business has been better.

Aldermen and J. P.'s Get $10,000 Costs

The county commissioners yesterday authorized an additional appropriation of $10,000 for Controller Robert G. Woodside for the payment of costs in discharged cases before aldermen and justices of the peace. A total of $100,000 previously had been set aside for the purpose this year.

WILL WED JOHN COOLIDGE, MISS TRUMBULL ADMITS

International News Service.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 20.—Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of Gov. John H. Trumbull, of Connecticut, told newspapermen here today that she and John Coolidge, son of the President, would be married.

There will be no White House wedding, however, Miss Trumbull said. She did not say where the ceremony would be held.

"There has been no formal announcement of our engagement made," she said. "But I might as well admit we are engaged. It seems to be accepted as a fact everywhere."

Miss Trumbull is here with her father and mother. Gov. Trumbull is attending the governors' conference.

WHERE LOADED TROLLEYS CRASHED

HOMESTEAD-EAST LIBERTY TROLLEY RAMMED BY HOMESTEAD PARK CAR

This is the Homestead-East Liberty trolley rammed at the bottom of Amity street hill, corner of Eighth avenue, Homestead, today when a Homestead Park car at terrific speed jumped the tracks, striking this car and knocking it many feet off its track.

NO CAUSE UNCOVERED IN HOMESTEAD WRECK

Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, said preliminary inquiry had failed to disclose the cause of the Homestead street car crash, but that an exhaustive investigation was being made by the company's "Major Accidents Committee," consisting of the heads of departments and a representative of the street car men's union.

Hasty inquiries, Fitzgerald said, developed the following statements, some of which may have to be revised as more complete information is received:

The Homestead-Mifflin car, a one-man car, was operated by G. H. Brenner, who has been in the company's service for 32 years.

The car was proceeding down Amity street, a long steep hill, into Homestead. Brenner stopped the car at Eleventh street. At that point it was operating faultlessly. He started down the hill again. About 200 feet above Ninth street he found he had lost control.

"NO AIR FOR BRAKING"

Brenner states he looked at the air gauge and found there was no air for the operation of the air-brake. He tried to reverse the motor, but without success. Then he turned the handbrake as far as it would go, but without impeding the progress of the car.

At Ninth street there is a derail switch, designed to throw the car off the track and up against the curbstone, in just such an emergency as Brenner was facing. James Palmer was stationed at this point to throw the switch so as to keep the car on the tracks. He was about to do this, but Brenner motioned to him to leave the switch alone—that is, to let the car be derailed.

Brenner in his report said the car jumped the derail. He evidently was under the impression, Fitzgerald said, that the car continued down the hill on the rails; but there is some evidence that at least the front wheels left the rails and ran down the hill on the paving stones. At any rate the derail switch, though open, failed to throw the car over to the side of the street, as it was intended it should.

Notwithstanding Brenner's statements that the brakes and controls by which he could have stopped the car failed to work, examination of the car shortly after the accident disclosed that it was in good mechanical and electrical condition and functioning properly, Fitzgerald said. The car, he added, had been completely rehabilitated only a year ago.

There is no disposition, in the light of the evidence so far adduced, to blame Brenner, Fitzgerald declared, pointing out that the motorman stayed with the car, even when he saw the crash impending, and even though he might have saved himself from what looked like certain injury, by jumping.

The car that was struck was just rounding the curve from Eighth avenue into Amity street. It was also a one-man car, in charge of A. B. Harbert, who has been in the company's employ 22 years. He could not be held in any way responsible, railways company officials said, for what occurred.

ARREST BLONDE IN ROTHSTEIN MURDER

FOLLOWING THE HOUNDS WITH PITTSBURGH HUNT IN SEMI-WEEKLY CHASE

THREE ARE INDICTED IN LOTTERY PROBE

GIRL FROM "ROOM 330" HELD

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(INS.)—Mayor James J. Walker's threat of a wholesale shakeup in the detective force because of police laxity in the search for Arnold Rothstein's slayer was shelved temporarily today pending the arrival here tonight of Mrs. Ruth Keyes, a mysterious Chicago blonde who was taken in custody by New York detectives in Chicago.

Mrs. Keyes occupied a room in the Park Central hotel here on the night the gambler was shot. Although she is said to have admitted she became acquainted with one of the men occupying the room to which Rothstein was lured, she denied any knowledge of the shooting. She also denied she was acquainted with Rothstein.

QUIZZED BEFORE

Mrs. Keyes was questioned here a few hours after the shooting on the night of November 4, but was allowed to return to Chicago.

Sixteen days have elapsed since Rothstein was shot, presumably, according to police, because he welched on paying a gambling debt $300,000.

Since the shooting, "Nigger Nate" Raymond, gambler who won most of the $300,000 Rothstein lost in the poker game which preceded the killing, has been questioned and exonerated.

"Tough Willie" McCabe, another who police "wanted to talk to" concerning the shooting, has walked into District Attorney Joab H. Banton's office and then departed after producing an iron clad alibi.

George McManus, termed the "key man" to the mystery still is sought.

"HAVE TOLD ALL"

"I have already told the police everything I know about the case," Mrs. Keyes said before she left Chicago. "I am glad to go back to Ney York and help all I can. I didn't know Rothstein. I was shopping in New York while stopping at the Park Central. My room was 330.

"I went out in the hall and met a man who seemed quite nice. I learned his name was "Jack" but that was all. Sunday afternoon he called my room and asked me to join him and another man in his room, 349, to have a drink. We had several drinks. I don't even remember what the other man looked like. I left about 6 o'clock and thought nothing more about the matter."

Mrs. Keyes insisted that if any of the men were Rothstein, McCabe, or McManus she did not know it.

FALL IN WAGON CAUSES DEATH

Thrown backward in his wagon when the team started suddenly, Adam Pelz, 40, of Geyer road Millvale sustained a broken back which caused his death. The accident occurred November 5 on Herrs Island.

Bomb Found in Can By Employe in Park

A tomato can which John Bloomer, East Park "whitewing," swept up in course of duty today, was a home-made bomb. Examination revealed nine sticks of dynamite wired to a timer made of two metal plates in the can. Bloomer was wheeling his cart through the park this afternoon when he noticed something protruding from the can. He didn't know what it was, so he turned it over to Patrolman Harvey Leatherman. At North Side Police Station it was stated it was a bomb, and was turned over to the Bureau of Mines to be destroyed.

Illinois Man Again Heads Grange Body

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Eugene A. Eckert, of Illinois, was re-elected chairman of the executive committee of the National Grange at a brief business session today. Harry A. Caton, of Ohio, was elected national secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the death a month ago of C. M. Freeman. The delegates then took up the consideration of the place for next year's annual convention. Denver, Seattle and Grand Rapids were brought up for consideration.

Estate of $15,000 Left to Daughters

An estate valued at $15,000 was disposed of in the will of Mrs. Laura T. Jones, of 1014 Park avenue, McKeesport, filed for probate today. Her residence at the Park avenue address is left to her two daughters, Miss Helen C. Jones and Mrs. Amanda L. Volk. One-fifth of the remainder of the estate is left to Mrs. Volk and the rest to Helen Jones.

Rich British Peer Wins Divorce Suit

EDINBURGH, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Lord Inverclyde, one of England's richest peers, today was granted a divorce from Lady Inverclyde. Lord Inverclyde sought the decree on the ground of alleged misconduct in a Paris hotel last June. Lord Inverclyde inherited more than $10,000,000 when he succeeded his father in 1919.

Back From "Dead" In Time to Share Will

YORK, Pa., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Melvin F. Gross, son of the late Benjamin F. Gross, and missing for over seven years, has been located in Reno, Nev., and a petition was presented in the local courts yesterday to stay proceedings which if carried through, would have disposed of an estate left to him, on the ground that he was legally dead. His father died in 1925, leaving a widow and 11 children. The auditor awarded Melvin's share, a modest amount, to an administrator to be appointed by the court. Last December the widow instituted legally dead proceedings. A man in Texas wrote to Gross, and addressed it to his last home in York. He was only a casual acquaintance. The letter reached Gross in Nevada. He gave such minute details of his boyhood that the petition to declare him dead was requested withdrawn.

SCIENTISTS URGE COUNTRY TO MAKE MOST OF COAL

Coal—the sick man of American industry—can be cured by extending its field of usefulness.

This suggestion to the American coal producer was made today by F. zur Nedden, German delegate to the second international conference on coal, in session here under the auspices of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Diagnosing the illness of the industry as over-production, zur Nedden declared the mine operator must join hands with science and market his product in forms other than fuel, if he would stabilize his business.

Zur Nedden's suggestion came by coincidence as an answer to the question asked the conference yesterday by T. P. Gaylord, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who urged the scientists to find a remedy for the depression which has visited the bituminous fields.

In Europe the science of utilizing coal has gone far ahead of its development in America, zur Nedden declared, pointing out that economic necessity has forced the nations of the old world to make up through research what they lack in natural resources.

America has these resources in abundance and the spur of need has not been felt in her laboratories, said zur Nedden. But, he declared, it would be wise for America, with more coal than she can use, to find outlets for it in by-product industries that would employ surplus labor and utilize the capital tied up in the coal industry.

"Europe has had the great good fortune of giving birth to such men as Berthelot and Patart in France, and Bergius, Mittasch and Fischer in Germany," said zur Nedden. "These men taught us how to add to coal artificially that which it lacks in hydrogen in order to make it a mixture of pure hydrocarbons, such as alcohol, gasoline or rich gas. Also all processes of improving coal, either mechanically by pulverizing, cleaning, blending or briquetting, or chemically by carbonizing, hydrogenating, or, at last but not least, by transforming it cheaply into that most sublime form of energy—electricity—all these processes have thrived in Europe, because of the necessity of supplementing the natural oil supplies and the water power of nature and of supplying a substitute for natural gas.

"Science became a form of capital quite as important to us as the monetary form of capital. While America invested a majority of its capital in sinking boreholes and harnessing the forces of waterfalls, we had, and still have, to invest a majority of our capital in factories for the improvement of coal and in thermal power stations. In Germany these supply 88 per cent of all electricity, while in the United States the percentage is but 62.

PROCESSES BUILT ON COAL

"I may point out that all these processes for improving coal by enhancing the value of the energy contained therein were built up on coal, notwithstanding the fact that such improved form of energy is often offered by nature ready made. This is especially true of the United States where manufactured gas is sold in larger quantities than in any other country of the world, both in total production and in production per inhabitant, in spite of the fact that natural gas offers much competition; and where approximately two-thirds of the electrical energy generated is generated from coal, in spite of the fact that the country is richer in water power than almost any other country of the world.

"Therefore the new possibilities of coal, such as the manufacture of synthetic fertilizer, synthetic alcohol and synthetic gasoline, will prove hardly less attractive for this continent blessed with fertile soil and natural saltpeter, with wood for alcohol and with petroleum surging from the earth, than they are for Europe. I venture to say that the processes of chemically adding hydrogen to the natural hydrocarbons as contained in coal and petroleum will be attractive to the American financier and business man, in spite of the fact that he is wading in natural oil. It may, however, be necessary to adopt a form modified to the particular American requirements such, for instance, as the combination of hydrogenation with the cracking processes.

"It is becoming more and more apparent that in many fields of industry we are approaching that limit of production which is set by the capacity of man to consume goods, and where goods are produced not because the world is in need of them, but because the producers want to diminish the costs of production by a large turnover. If, as many economists seem to believe, it were a question merely of selling quantities, then industrial production would be limited by the possibilities either of enabling the consumers within the country to consume more goods, or of opening more export markets.

ILLUSTRATES PROGRESS

"Now the story of carbon, hydrogen and capital seems particularly well suited to illustrate the fallacy of that one-sided quantitative way of looking upon developments. This story clearly shows a way of progress both in quantity and in quality. Energy is thus at the disposal of man in more and more improved quality, and this is being done by intertwining more and more technical processes between the raw coal and the ultimate product offered to the consumer. These processes are tying up more and more capital per unit of raw material—in

"Capital may be characterized as frozen wages. When tracing the formation of capital to its ultimate source we always find that it springs from the surplus of wages over immediate consumption. When capital is invested, i. e., when plants are built, it melts into wages again. It is a source of gainful occupation, not only to the man operating and building the plant and all its paraphernalia, but also indirectly to all men occupied in the industries providing the materials from which buildings, machines and apparatus are made."

SUBPENA MORE MINER BOOKS

More light on the collection and distribution of relief by the National Miners' Union and its allied agencies is sought by the federal grand jury.

Today Judge Nelson McVicar, upon certificate of Frank S. Bond, grand jury foreman, directed that subpenas be issued against Patrick H. Toohey, secretary; Dorothy Roos and Vincent Kemenezich, treasurer of the National Miners' Union, to produce books and records of the Western Pennsylvania and the National Miners' Relief Committees.

Similar subpenas were issued against other officers several days ago.

SLY REYNARD IS BESET BY HOUNDS OF HUNT CLUB

The hunter's horn and the baying of hounds are familiar sounds in the Fox Chapel district these somber autumn days. Twice a week they are heard as members of the Pittsburgh Hunt follow the hounds on the merry chase of the elusive fox.

These hunts, or "meets," as they are known to the hunters, are held each Wednesday and Saturday.

There's thrill and color to these fox hunts. Spirited horses are held in check until the hunting horn is sounded and the hounds are put on scent. Then, swift as the wind, the dogs are off, followed by galloping horses and attractively garbed riders. As the chase leads across fields and through woods, the "jumps," or fences, are taken.

And there's a flash of scarlet and green as the "hunt" goes across country toward Bakerstown. A closeup of the members of the Pittsburgh Hunt shows that the scarlet is the hunting coats and the green is the collar adornment. Breeches are white and the boots are black, with tan tops. The leaders—members of the Hunt Staff—wear velvet hunting caps. The others wear silk hats.

ORGANIZED THREE YEARS

The Pittsburgh Hunt, as the club is known, was organized three years ago. Its clubhouse, kennels and stables are in the Fox Chapel district. It has a pack of about 30 English and American foxhounds.

The club opens its season late in September with a horse show. This is followed with the regular weekly "meets" and a number of special events, such as the hunt that is scheduled for Thanksgiving Day. This will begin at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and will be followed by a hunt breakfast in the Fox Chapel Club.

The club has about 40 members and each meet is attended by about 20 to 25 mounted riders. A number of them are women.

The Hunt Staff presides over these meets. The staff comprises George Paull, master of hounds; Herbert Lytle, Bliss Flaccus and Edward Davison, honorary whippers-in; George H. Cherrington, in charge of the field, and Ben K. Carr, huntsman.

PUPILS ORDERLY IN SCHOOL FIRE

Weeks of fire drills and safety talks brought good results to 300 pupils of the Ninth Avenue school, McKeesport yesterday, when fire was discovered in the structure. Marching in two lines, the children cleared the building within two minutes after the fire had been discovered at 2 o'clock.

Miss Mildred Ferguson, a teacher, told firemen she noticed a blaze in a storage room on the third floor. After the building had been cleared, several teachers attempted to extinguish the blaze with chemicals but were unable to put out the fire until after firemen had arrived. Damage was estimated at $500. The cause of the blaze is undetermined.

PADLOCKS SNAPPED ON 22 PLACES IN PGH. DISTRICT

Twenty-two saloons, hotels, restaurants, roadhouses and other places were officially made arid today. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, on petition of prohibition agents, granted temporary padlock injunctions because of liquor law violations. Eight of the places are in Pittsburgh, two in McKeesport and the others in nearby towns. Final hearings will be held on January 15.

The places padlocked are:

TICKET CREW GIVES JURY EVIDENCE

Three alleged operators of the Louisiana State Lottery, the organization which the probing grand jury is reported to have found paying police protection, today were indicted by the regular November grand jury. Earlier in the day they waived hearing for court trial when arraigned before Judge James B. Drew, sitting as a committing magistrate.

They are, Mrs. Mary C. Shafer, of Castle Shannon road; Henry C. Recker, of Popular Grover street, Carrick, and James A. Murray, of Philadelphia. Each posted $5,000 bail at the hearing.

Justice of the Peace Arthur F. Reed, of Greentree borough, his two sons, Arthur F. Reed, Jr., and Clarence Reed, and his nephew, C. W. Wall, were in Judge Drew's courtroom to testify against the trio. They were the witnesses District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner took before the regular grand jury against the lottery operators.

PRINTED POOL TICKETS

According to Gardner, it was the testimony of the four men that brought about the arrest of the alleged pool operators. It was for Mrs. Shafer, Murray and Recker, that the Reed brothers and Wall printed thousands of tickets for the lottery in a room over the Justice of the Peace's office, District Attorney Gardner said.

Six Negroes, taken into custody in connection with a raid made upon an allged headquarters for a lottery in the Hill District yesterday, were witnesses before the probing body this morning. The raid was at 203 Wylie avenue, and was conducted by county detectives on information gleaned from testimony before the jury yesterday.

The witnesses were Mrs. C. R. Reed, Charles F. Newman, Gus Greenley, James Davis, "Doctor" Cotton and William F. Snyder, all of the Hill District.

Paul Davis, alleged proprietor of a gambling house in Isabella street, North Side, spent last night in jail because he was unable to remember matters of which the probers believe he has knowledge. He was given the night to refresh his memory and will be taken before the grand jury again today. Another witness from the same district was Stella Shaner, alleged operator of a disorderly house in General Robinson street. The Shaner woman gave satisfactory testimony, according to Gardner.

In his story yesterday, Murray revealed the name of a man who was collecting graft from the operators of the lottery. He also named the man to whom most of the graft was paid. Striving to build up a strong case against the two persons named, Gardner began calling the first of a score of witnesses today.

DRIVE TO BOOST CITY BEGUN BY C. OF C.

First steps in the campaign to boost Pittsburgh to the rest of the world has been taken by the Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the campaign, with the organization of an army of workers who will conduct a membership drive for the local organization. The drive for members is the first move in the community promotion plan. With increased membership and finances, the civic body can go ahead with advertising Pittsburgh's greatness.

"Organization is the keynote of modern progress in business, and Pittsburgh has reason to be proud of the chamber's civic and business activities and give it the increased support it asks for," was the remark made to the campaign army leaders by E. T. Whiten, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who has taken one of the chief posts in the campaign under George S. Davison, general chairman, and E. J. Chesterman, executive chairman.

$100,000 MORE NEEDED

To prosecute the program outlined by the board of directors they will require $100,000 additional per year, chamber officials declare. This would give the chamber an annual budget of $300,000. The present membership of the organization is now 5,000, which it is proposed to increase to 6,000.

Many meetings are scheduled during the next fortnight, it was announced by William B. Rodgers, general in the sales army. On November 20 and 23 all officers are called to report at noonday luncheons. November 26, a group working under George R. Dorman, acting as colonel, in the mercantile section of the city, will receive final organization instructions. Similarly the manufacturing group, under L. C. Bibler, the professional group, under Henry Tranter, and the territorial group, under Stewart C. McFarland, will meet November 27.

Mobilization of the entire force, estimated at between 400 and 500, has been ordered for November 30 in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, when T. P. Gaylord, president of the Chamber of Commerce, George S. Davison, William B. Rodgers, and a speaker of national prominence in business affairs, yet to be announced, will make addresses.

DRIVE OPENS DEC. 4

The intensive membership and sustaining fund appeal will begin December 4. Supplementing the roster of colonels and majors recently published, the following have enlisted in the chamber's campaign army as captains:

John B. Russell, L. F. McClure, E. C. McQuiston, William C. Stolk, J. D. Watson, W. P. Buffington, Charles W. Carlson, C. B. Connelly, W. F. Doyle, Joseph J. Russell, Louis D. Hall, H. W. Leonard, A. COUNTY DELAYS FUNDS TO EXTINGUISH MINE FIRE

The plan to cut a ditch around the burning section of the abandoned coal mine on the McElhaney plan, Mifflin township, to isolate the fire received a setback when the County Commissioners yesterday refused to appropriate the $50,000 asked for the purpose.

Failure of several residents of the vicinity to sign releases that would free the county from the liability of property damages caused by the digging of the ditch led the commissioners to postpone action. County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich reported that only three property owners had signed such releases, although the township commissioners had agreed to secure such documents, provided the county would do the work.

"I think we ought to safeguard the county's interests by letting the mine burn a little longer until we get releases," suggested Commissioner C. C. McGovern.

Commissioner E. V. Babcock said he had instructed the Department of Public Works to erect large signs warning against trespassing on the site. Two lives were lost when earth near the entrance to the pit caved in. The fire has been burning for nearly a year.

Babcock expressed doubt whether the plan to isolate the fire by digging a ditch would be advisable, saying that as no one knows exactly where the fire is, a series of test holes should be drilled to locate the blaze before spending the money. Representatives of the Department of Public Works explained that mining experts were consulted before the ditch plan was decided upon as the best. Attempts to smother such fires by the use of gases, they explained, have not been successful.

Sues to See Books Of Bowling Alleys

Albert Yochum has obtained a writ of mandamus against the Liberty National Bowling Alleys and Hugo Enders, president, returnable November 28, asking the defendants to show cause why Yochum should not be permitted to examine the company books. He claims to own 50 of the 200 shares of capital stock of par value of $100 a share. He says that he was notified March 15 last that his services as manager were no longer required and since that time has not been able to obtain any information concerning the concern's affairs.

HUNT SITE FOR MORGUE

Coroner W. J. McGregor yesterday requested the county commissioners to make arrangements to secure a temporary morgue for use during the construction of the new county office building. He informed them that he had been seeking a building and believed the undertaking establishment of John A. Freyvogel, 3406 Fifth avenue, is the best available.

Freyvogel, he said, is willing to make the necessary alterations, provide light and heat and rent the building to the county for $12,000 a year. The matter was held over, pending a decision whether to include the morgue in the new county building or to secure a separate structure.

Wertz, Politician, Dies at Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 20. — (AP.) — George M. Wertz, former representative in Congress from this district, and for the past 30 years a prominent figure in Cambria county politics, died yesterday in his home in Richland township.

Mr. Wertz, a Republican, was elected sheriff in 1897, and also served as county commissioner. In 1908 he was elected to the state Senate and at the close of the 1911 session was elected president of that body. He also served as county controller and was elected to Congress in 1922.

EMBEZZLER BLAMES BRIDE'S EXTRAVAGANCE

Lewis E. Meckel, 67, of 3833 Evergreen road, for 45 years a trusted employe of the Citizens Savings Bank, must serve from one to three years in the county jail because he desired to gratify every desire of his bride, many years his junior. He confessed to using $20,000 of the bank's funds, before Judge James B. Drew in Common Pleas Court.

Meckel, according to the testimony given, had led an honest life up to four years ago, when he married a woman many years his junior. In his infatuation he indulged her in every extravagance she desired. His salary was only $4,000 a year, and her purchases at a single department store amounted it was testified, to as much as $3,000 a month.

Meckel's savings account was soon exhausted. Then he began his peculations, covering his thefts by "doctoring" the books. This he was enabled to do through his position as assistant treasurer.

MAKES RESTITUTION

The Citizens Savings Bank was merged last June with the Peoples Savings and Trust Company, and shortly afterward State Bank Examiner John P. Stewart discovered the embezzlements.

By giving up practically all of his real estate and personal property Meckel was able to make restitution.

His wife was not in court.

This extravagance menaces health

To brush teeth and forget gums, is an extravagance that demands as its price health and its precious gifts, beauty and youth. In this life of ease and luxury, gums are undernourished and under-exercised. And if neglected, they surrender to diseases that sweep the system and often cause loss of teeth.

Be liberal with yourself. Take advantage of the best modern dentistry. See your dentist every six months. Continue to brush your teeth. But also, every morning and night, brush gums vigorously with the dentifrice specifically made for the purpose . . . Forhan's for the Gums.

When you have used this dentifrice for a few days you'll notice a vast improvement in the way your gums look and feel. In addition, note how effectively and safely Forhan's cleans teeth white and protects them from causes of decay. Get a tube from your druggist and start using it today.

BABCOCK BACKS COUNTY-BUILT GOLF LINKS

Allegheny county will save possibly $50,000 by having county employes build the golf courses in North and South parks instead of advertising for bids by contractors, Commissioner E. V. Babcock declared at a meeting of commissioners yesterday.

He made this statement after Commissioner C. C. McGovern had questioned Superintendent of Parks, Paul B. Riis, objecting to the manner in which equipment has been secured for the work and to what he contended is insufficient supervision by county officials.

"Why are you building a golf course?" he asked Riis, "What will it cost?"

"I can't say exactly what it will cost, to answer your last question first," replied Riis, "There was an estimate made that the courses would cost $80,000 each. I can't see why they should cost that much. I've built golf courses for $25,000. The major work already has been done in South Park for $11,000. We are obliged to do an unusual amount of grading and filling. I would say they will cost from $50,000 to $60,000 each."

DECLINES INSPECTION

Riis invited McGovern out to inspect the work that has been done but the commissioner declined, saying, "I don't know anything about golf." He demanded the superintendent's opinion on other golf courses in the county, but the latter declined to make any statement. McGovern asked question after question concerning the advantage of doing the work with county employes, instead of drawing up specifications and advertising for bils.

"It you want to build parks by contracts, you do not need a man like me," said Riis, "You can't build parks and golf courses like you can build houses and bridges. You need a man of training and experience, who has a personal interest in the work that cannot be written into contracts. This is not a matter of moving so many tons of dirt or hauling so many sacks of cement. This is a matter of training and personality."

"I have inspected these golf courses," remarked Babcock, "I had two golfers with me and we were amazed at the progress of the work. These courses are being built well and economically. They will be the best courses in Allegheny county.

McGovern asked Riis if he had purchased tractors for the work. Riis replied that he is renting tractors at $17.50 a week under an agreement by which the county will own them when the total rental reaches $910, the retail price.

TRACTORS ON INSTALLMENT

"Does Allegheny county want to buy tractors on the installment plan?" demanded McGovern, terming the agreement a violation of the law requiring advertisements for all purchases over $300. Riis insisted that the arrangement is the best and most economical method of renting good tractors, and that the county would have to buy these machines or others in the future.

County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich ruled that there is no law violation in the plan to use county employes for the work of building the courses, comparing that to the work done by the road maintenance forces, and that there is no need to advertise for bids. He said that the "rental," of the tractors apparently violated at least the spirit of the law, although that could be settled when the rental period ended if the county decided to purchase them.

Girl Swindler Leaps Train on Way to Prison

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 20.—Authorities were startled today to learn that Mrs. Helen Sargent, pretty 23-year-old woman swindler, had escaped a train while being escorted to the Marysville Reformatory to serve a sentence of one to three years. She jumped through a window and disappeared in a maze of railroad tracks at Crestline Junction, making good a threat that she would not be taken to the institution. She was arrested here for passing a bad check, after posing as a prison reform worker.

THIEVES CLEAN 'MODEL HOME'

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Nov. 20.—After several hundred had inspected a "demonstration home" in Union avenue, thieves carted away furnishings valued at several hundred dollars which had been loaned to J. W. Stevens, the builder. Even light bulbs were removed.

Wounded Doe Swims River, Falls Dead

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 20.—Believed to have been shot on the Greene county side of the Monongahela River, a 150-pound doe swam across to the Point Marion side and dropped dead on the wharf there. The deer barely managed to swim the river. The body was turned over to Warden R. G. Bryson, who is conducting an investigation.

New in America! Scientific Bath Treatment for Chronic Rheumatism

Brings to Pittsburgh Sufferers Benefits of Famous European Springs

A new scientific discovery—just introduced to America—brings welcome relief to sufferers from chronic Rheumatic ailments.

It is a simple bath treatment that you can use right at home, in your own bath tub. It is the discovery of a German scientist combining in a new and more effective way ingredients of known value to the medical profession including actual concentration of famous European mineral springs. A famous European specialist says it proves effective in 97% of all cases. In most cases the pain is definitely relieved after the first bath. It is known as Transkutan.

And note! There are no long drawn out expensive treatments that do not show for months whether or not they are helping you. The very first Transkutan bath will determine whether or not you can expect relief from the Transkutan treatment. European specialists say 97% of all cases benefit magically thru Transkutan—if you are one of the 3% who do not benefit, the treatment costs you nothing.

Do this: Go to any of May's Drug Stores or McCulloch Stores or your favorite druggist right now. Merely deposit with him $5 for your test bottle of Transkutan. If you happen to be one of the rare few who do not experience noticeable relief from pain from the first Transkutan bath return the empty bottle to the druggist and he will immediately return your $5 deposit. Thus you can determine, without risking one cent, whether or not Transkutan can help you.

ROBBERS STOLE CHICKENS, TOO

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 20.—Samuel Craig and Samuel Nelson, both Negroes, held on a charge of theft of $210 from John Brown of this city, admitted they were implicated in the theft of 20 chickens and two turkeys at the Harry Gabby home, just south of this city. Officers secured $126.66 of the $210 taken from Brown. The two Negroes and four of their relatives and friends, said to have shared in the fowls were taken into custody.

Duquesne U. Women Merge Class Polls

The women students of Duquesne University for the first time has combined the classes of all departments and elected a set of officers for each class. The combined seniors elected Margaret Kenna of the school of accounts, president. The juniors chose Katherine Liston, school of pharmacy; sophomores, Anna Rose Donnelli, of the school of education, and the freshmen, Bernadette Horrell of the music school.

HEAR IT! SEE IT!
It's all in SOUND

What a magnificent picture has been made by King Vidor director of "The Big Parade." All Hollywood took part! Months passed in its production! And here it is now, the true Epic of Camera Land. Pleasure . . . and pain lurk along the path to Picture Paradise. The magic camera of King Vidor follows one young beauty along that road to fame . . . or failure! So human. So rich with comedy. So true. It spares nothing. It tells all. And the magic of the Sound Screen has brought it all to you to HEAR as well as SEE!

The haunting melody of the theme song, "Cross-Roads," will linger long in your memory!

BANKRUPTCY TRUSTEE IS INDICTED

Elliott Frederick, for many years a trustee in bankruptcy cases in the Pittsburgh district, now in jail for contempt of court, yesterday was indicted by the Federal grand jury for alleged embezzlement of funds of bankrupt estates.

More than $50,000 is involved in the 15 counts of the indictment. A month ago he was sent to jail by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker for failure to make final and supplementary reports in bankruptcy cases to Watson B. Adair, referee in bankruptcy.

Frederick, according to the indictment, while acting trustee in bankruptcy of the following estates embezzled the amounts set forth: Jacob Surloff, $2,984.20; Wentzel Baking Company, $1,418.19; McKnight Realty Company, $2,528.52; Replacement Auto Parts Company, $529.75; M. S. Perelstein, $1,060.99; Benjamin Sheiman Co., $2,695.75; Pittsburgh Bedding Company, $3,317.82; Lorch Brothers Company, $7,946.71; S. M. Silverman, $1,678.98; Palace Confectionery Company, $66.85; Acklin & Reuter Co., $1,585.51; Consolidated Rubber Company, $169.80; Curto Brothers, $545.37; Peter Sulentikas, $9,832.74, and Fahnestock Manufacturing Company, $14,170.68.

All the alleged embezzlements are in trusteeships to which he was appointed since 1920 by the Federal District Court.

COUNCIL ASKED FOR N. S. POOL

North Side civic leaders have forwarded to Council a request for the installation of a swimming pool in the section of East Park bounded by North Canal street, East Ohio street, Union avenue and Cedar avenue. The request was contained in a written petition submitted jointly by the Republican organizations of the Twenty-second and Twenty-third Wards and the School Visitors of the Twenty-third Ward.

Oil City Boy Freed As Hit-Run Driver

OIL CITY, Pa., Nov. 20.—Frank O'Day, Jr., 19-year-old high school youth, convicted at the August term of court on a charge of being a hit-and-run driver, will not have to stand trial again. O'Day, shortly after the August trial, won a retrial, and today the nolle prosse asked by District Attorney Daniel B. Goodwin was granted. The case won unusual attention because of the prominence of the family. It had been alleged O'Day was driver of a car which struck an aged man and child in Oil City.

LIFT YOUR TICKETS TODAY FOR WELFARE FUND SHOW

All reservations of seats made by telephone to the special box offices in the Sheridan Square and Grand theaters for the midnight show, which is to be given at the Stanley Theater next Friday night by the Variety Club and the Sun-Telegraph for the benefit of the Welfare Fund that are not called for by 5 p. m. today will be turned back into the general sale. There are comparatively few of these tickets, but in justice to the public which is seeking seats for the big show, the committee in charge of the benefit has decided the tickets will not be held later.

Many excellent seats remain but are being sold rapidly and the indications are that the audience at the Stanley Theater when the show begins on Friday at 11:45 p. m., will test the large capacity of that house. Everything possible has been done to insure the orderly handling of the crowd, both outside and inside the theater. In addition to the complete staff of the Stanley Theater, the head ushers and their respective staffs from the Nixon, Alvin and Pitt theaters will assist in seating the audience.

Director Clark, of the Department of Public Safety, has volunteered to assign a squad of special officers to the theater before the opening of the show to prevent congestion and also to arrest anyone attempting to scalp tickets. So far as can be learned no tickets thus far have fallen into the hands of scalpers, but there is such an insistent demand for them the committee feels that it ought to exert its utmost endeavors to prevent any such perversion of reservations.

The program committee will meet today at the office of its chairman, Eugene L. Connelly, of the Harris Amusement Company, to complete the long bill of attractions. In addition to the acts already announced, the Harris Amusement Company will send from its Sheridan Square Theater, Riddle and Cook, a couple of comic wags, who sing, chatter and play musical instruments; Big Boy Williams, a droll jokesmith; Lillian St. Leon, with her performing animals, and from the Harris Theater, Teller Sisters and Ackland, a trio of dancers and comics; Lucie Bruch, the gifted pianist; Caul Sisters and company, line songstresses; Smith and Sawyer, some sidewalk patterers; Mazette Lewis and company, in a humorous sketch, and the Dancing Danburys. From the Harris South Hills Theater, the Harris Amusement Company will send the Original Empire Comedy Four, the oldest singing male vocal quartet in the varieties. This act is shortly to leave for a long European tour.

NOVELTY PLANNED

A distinct novelty will be presented at the introduction of the performance Friday night. It will be given by three of Pittsburgh's leading show organists, namely, John Mitchell, of the Sheridan Square; Bernard Armstrong, of the Stanley Theater, and Dick Liebert, of the Loew's Penn Theater. They will present jointly a novel number, each organist in his own peculiar way, interpreting a part of the selection.

Another novelty will be the rendition of the Variety Club's own popular song, which has been made into a songlogue for this particular occasion, and in which the audience will be expected to take part. The words will be thrown upon the screen and the score will parallel a current popular ditty.

Every first-class theater in Pittsburgh, in which artists appear personally, will be represented in the program, as will also several of the night clubs.

"Laborer" Grates, So Lang Would Change Titles

Edward G. Lang, director of the Department of Public Works, has asked Council to approve a proposal to change the title of 51 men and women city employes who are now erroneously designated on payrolls as "laborers."

Some of the employes so classified are employed in various bureaus as clerks, watchmen and typists, Lang explained, and he would like to have them authorized in the budget under proper titles.

W. PA. DENTISTS CONVENE HERE

More than 1,000 dentists from all parts of Western Pennsylvania are in Pittsburgh today, attending the annual convention of the Odontological Society of Western Pennsylvania, which opened in William Penn Hotel. In addition to the state delegates there are many prominent dentists from other parts of the country. The three-day session here will be featured by 100 clinics.

Papers on important subjects were read by the nation's leading dentists at sessions late today. One of the outstanding papers was on mouth cancer by Lester Hollander, of Pittsburgh. The election of officers is scheduled for tomorrow morning and a banquet tomorrow night.

Ganna Gives Painting To Polish Legation

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Madame Ganna Walska, wife of Harold F. McCormick, Chicago millionaire, has purchased a portrait of Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, Polish minister of war, by Wojiech Kossak and presented it to the Polish legation at Washington, the artist announced here today. Kossak was court painter for Wilhelm II of Germany from 1894 to 1901 and later painted portraits for the court of Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria-Hungary.

Lame Back or Lumbago Pain

"Heet" Relieves Instantly

Use applicator attached to cork, and brush "Heet" over the pain area. Immediately you feel this harmless, glorious, penetrating heat draw the pain, soreness and stiffness right out of your lame, aching back. Besides, "Heet" scatters the congestion and establishes circulation.

"Heet" instantly relieves rheumatic or neuritis pain in any joint, muscle or nerve, whether in the arm, shoulder, neck, legs or body. "Heet" contains two soothing, penetrating ingredients, too expensive to use in ordinary liniments or analgesics. "Heet" is a clean, pleasant liquid; doesn't stain, blister or irritate.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that was central over Eastern Tennessee and Kentucky yesterday morning moved rapidly northeastward, increasing in intensity. This morning the lowest barometer reported is 29.58 inches at Eastport. The disturbance produced light rains generally over the states east of the Mississippi, and moderately heavy rains in the Allegheny River basin. It is cloudy over the entire East this morning, and snow flurries are occurring in most of the northern states.

High pressure stretches from Washington and Oregon southward to Texas. It is producing cold weather throughout its area, and in the Gulf states frosts occurred as far east as Georgia. In the Canadian Border states the temperatures are rising, due to a low pressure area now over the Canadian Northwest.

River Conditions.

There is a substantial rise at the headwaters of both rivers, due to moderately heavy rains. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.5 feet: Dam No. 2, 8.4, and Dam No. 6, 8.8. The Ohio River will rise to about 13.0 feet by Wednesday afternoon. The dams will be lowered. The dams at Normal and Portsmouth are down.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away go indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 10c, 30c, 60c.

Eruptions Caused Unspeakable Pain Cuticura Healed

"My arms and hands broke out with a rash which spread to my face and formed hard, red pimples. The pimples festered and irritated to such an extent that I could not keep my hands from them, and the more I scratched the more they burned. After scratching, large eruptions formed that caused unspeakable pain and entire loss of rest. I was ashamed to go to any place.

"The trouble went on for about four months and all the time I was trying different remedies but without relief. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in one month I was completely healed." (Signed) George Smith, 528 State St., Brooklyn, N.Y., March 12, 1928.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment as required, keeps the skin fresh, smooth and clear. Cuticura Talcum is an ideal toilet powder.

By ERIC HEATH

DELPHINE EVANS faced the bitter realization that her marriage was a failure. For over two years she had ben unwilling to admit the truth, even to herself. But the time had come when she felt it was impossible to go on living a lie. Anything would be better than that.

She hated to hurt Roger. She was fond of him and pitied him. But there was no other way out.

"It isn' that I blame you for anything, you understand, Roger," she declared. "It's not your fault. But then, it's not mine either. I know you do your best. But, you see, we're missing out on everything—things other people have. I can't be happy, just drudging along, struggling all the time to make both ends meet, when they just won't meet. I'm young, and I want good times; I want to dance and laugh and go out and see things. We'll be dead a long time . . ."

She broke off, abruptly, seeing that her words were making no visible impression on him.

"It has to be a clean break," she continued, after a long pause. "You'll go your way, and I'll go mine. I don't expect anything from you, money—alimony or anything. I want to be on my own, make my own way. I want to be absolutely free."

Still he did not reply. It piqued her to think that he was willing to give her up, without a protest of any sort. But her vanity was flattered a moment later, when he said, in a flat tone:

"You're right. I've been wrong to try to hold you—this long."

"Then, we'll part good friends?" she asked.

He nodded, and turning quickly, left the room.

There were no grounds for a divorce, and Delphine considered that an unofficial separation would suit her purposes just as well.

Her parting with Roger was a purely formal one. They wished each other well, then Delphine ran down the front steps, got into the waiting taxi and drove off.

When her little stake had dwindled to alarmingly small proportions, and she was becoming really frightened, she got her first job in a second-rate chorus. The work was hard and trying, the pay poor, but she rejoiced over the fact that at least she had made a beginning.

Whenever she was unusually discouraged she found herself dropping off to sleep with thoughts of the flat where she and Roger had lived; it had been small, but warm and cosy; they had not had much money to spend for food, but the meals she had prepared had been wholesome and satisfying; she had had time to read then, now she hardly ever even glanced at a newspaper.

In the beginning, Delphine had had unshakable faith in herself; she was sure, if she worked hard enough, she would be able to climb to the top and have her name in electric letters. But during the three years she had worked in the chorus this faith slowly dwindled. Other girls got ahead, and Delphine became bitterly jealous of them; she attributed their success to "pull."

After several months of illness Delphine came to a decision; she would go back to Roger, confess she had failed miserably and ask him whether he would take her back. The little flat had been so much better than anything she had known, since she had left it.

In the main office of the company, she asked for Roger, and an office boy was instructed to take her to him. To her surprise, the boy lead her down a hallway and stopped before the door of a private office, on which, in gold lettering, were the words: "Roger Evans, Assistant Treasurer." For an instant Delphine felt as if she were going to faint.

She motioned the boy not to knock on the door.

"I think—I think I'll see Mr. Evans at his—home," she stammered. "Can you tell me where he lives?" The boy gave her an address.

Delphine found it was the address of a charming little home in the suburbs of the city. She found out that Roger owned the place; she found out about his successful speculations; she found that he was considered one of the most valuable men in his company.

"And I thought he'd always be just a clerk," she thought dully.

She realized that if she went to him now, he would think it was because of the money he was making; because he had climbed to a place of importance. Nothing would convince him she had not known about the change in his affairs.

"All I wanted was the little flat again," she mused, her heart heavy, as she turned down the path to the waiting taxi.

Just as though it had been prearranged, a smart roadster drove up, stopped and out jumped Roger. Delphine's heart gave a leap—she tried to avert her face, but Roger had recognized her.

"Delphine! Oh, my dear!" And his arms were around her. "How did you know where to come?" He turned her back toward the house, opened the door, and, picking her up, he carried her over the threshold.

"You see, dear, I knew that someday you'd come back to me. And I want to thank you, for it's really your fault that all this has come about. Your words made me realize that I'd not been using my talents as I might and I determined to make a success of myself for you." But Delphine was quietly crying for joy—and the taxi waited in vain.

"WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD"

Verdict of Woman Who Tried Pinkham's Compound

Tully, N. Y.—"It hurt me to walk or sit down without help and I felt sick and weak. My mother-in-law took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she induced me to take it. I am now on the fourth bottle and have also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. The medicines that will do for me what the Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done are certainly worth their weight in gold. I think I have given them a fair trial and I expect to take two more bottles of the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. CHARLES MORGAN, R. F. D. 1, Tully, N. Y.

Following Reviewers in Their Rounds of Our Theaters

KATHARINE CORNELL SAVES "THE AGE OF INNOCENCE" FROM SEEMING LONG

By GEORGE SEIBEL

FIVE minutes of glorious drama last night, when Arnold Korff as Julius Beaufort tries to persuade Katharine Cornell as Ellen Olenska to fly with him in his yacht to the moon-haunted Caribbees, stood out in five acts of episodes picked out of Edith Wharton's novel, "The Age of Innocence." When a dramatist starts out to dramatize a novel, the first thing to do is to forget the novel. If Margaret Ayer Barnes had forgotten her first act and stopped before her last, the result would have been a drama of tenser life and higher art. It is pleasant enough to hear actors with well-modulated voices talk of wicked Boss Tweed while the Beautiful Blue Danube is melodiously meandering behind the scenes, but it isn't drama. And when the lovely and unhappy heroine reminisces of youthful days, we admire her good memory, but again it isn't drama.

These ungracious observations indicate that the dramatist has been rather too faithful to the novelist, and the result is an acted novel, not a play. An Ibsen was needed to wring the neck of some loquacious ladies in the cast. But they are all so charming that even an Ibsen might have relented. And so "The Age of Innocence" suffers from conversational excess.

Somewhat also, from the ethics of Rutherford B. Hayes, who must have been President about that time, while Queen Victoria ruled in England. It was a stately and starched age, an age with mutton-chops and horsecars, and yet men and women were just as they are today and just as they were when Cleopatra was a flapper.

There is a great drama in Miss Wharton's heroine, portrayed with poignant sincerity by Katharine Cornell. This woman who has fled to America to escape a brutal husband, who flees back to Europe to escape a romantic lover, has in her a great range of possibilities. She exhibits emotion tempered with intelligence, a very difficult thing for any artist. The two qualities are often mutually exclusive. That Miss Cornell is able to hold her audience, through the longueurs of tepid tea parties, is a revelation of this actress's real genius. She is superb in showing possibilities that she is not permitted to realize. She has all the potencies of passion that evaporates in anticlimaxes and futile exits. Like a parade of a toy army that has let its powder get wet!

Miss Cornell is not the only splendid player in that cast. Arnold Korff, who used to do stellar things at the glorious old Irene Place Theater, has some marvelous moments, particularly that scene in the fourth act. Rollo Peters, like the incarnate spirit of romance, played the young lover with gallant grace. Isabel Irving, with all the sweet charm that used to be hers when she was Virginia Carvel, portrayed a lady of the old regime as no one else could.

There are admirable bits of character drawing here and there—by Katharine Stewart, William Podmore, Albert Tavernier, Edouard La Roche, Frazer Coulter and Gianninia Gatti. Eden Gray as May has a colorless role, but etched it with artistic sincerity. And so on—the play is well played—if it is a play.

Long waits between the acts, while the scenic settings were being built, did not tend to make the moments pass more quickly, but the large audience was most generous with its applause, and seemed to like the drama, even though it must have been disappointed by the last act. Rollo Peters comes on, bowed under the burden of 40 years; we see Madame Olenska's cane, but have no glimpse of how she uses it. Perhaps it is as well. Perhaps it would be as well if the fifth act and the first could be somehow dropped overboard, leaving the drama and losing the novel.

PLAYERS APPEARING -:- IN NEW BILLS -:- STAGE AND SCREEN

Robert Geddes in the leading male role of "Golden Dawn," operetta attraction in the Alvin.

Katharine Cornell as the principal character in "The Age of Innocence," now in Pitt.

Queenie Smith, as sweetheart of sailor boys in "Hit the Deck," musical comedy in Nixon.

Marion Davies is an actress seeking movie career in "Show People," presented in Penn.

Doris Kenyon has a principal part in "The Home Towners," showing on Stanley screen.

Mary Ann Dentler is featured in "Lilac Time," offered by the Gayety Players in Gayety.

Ruth Elder in Liberty Debut

"Moran of the Marines," starring Richard Dix, is the current feature in the Liberty. Ruth Elder, aviatrix, makes her professional movie debut in this picture. Roscoe Karns, Duke Martin, Brooks Benedict and Capt. H. H. Calvert also are in the cast of this tale of the Marines at home and in China. A stage act, and news pictures are other attractions.

LAUGHS RULE FINE BILL IN DAVIS

Judging the vaudeville bill in the Davis Theater by its laugh-producing powers, it is the best of the season. Judging it by its new and fresh witticisms, it also ranks first. From the appearance of Dorothy and Rosetta Ryan, with their intimate family secret about the man in the moon, to the grotesque dance of the two men in the Laniere Quintet, there is just one amusing and novel bit after another. There is even a new Scotch joke—would you believe it? And Jimmie Allard has a one-act playlet, "Cheaters Inn," that is coherent and convulsing, giving him a fine opportunity as a sophisticated waiter. Then comes Fred Stritt, who sings well and jests even better, and might easily dispense with one gag over which the censor should run a lawnmower. And if anybody can manage more awkward falls than Pert Spence can while turning a straw hat into breakfast food, tell it to Edith True. Spence's clever partner. Lastly, or firstly, as he opens the bill, Valencia is a real daredevil of the swing and flying rings. But Fred Stritt, Jimmie Allard and the Laniere Quintette are the big outstanding features of an outstanding program. The photoplay is "The Foreign Legion," another of those desert-sands and heroic-sacrifice pictures that leave you wondering how all the soldiers in the legion come to be so noble and all the officers otherwise. Anyway, it gives Lewis Stone and Norman Kerry a chance to look military and dashing.

Dance Act on Sheridan Bill

A dance act, "Dextrous Motion of Pedal Extremities," is a feature of the new three-day vaudeville bill in the Sheridan Square. It is presented by Jean Spence, the Lloyd Sisters and Jack Henkins and Frank Vreeland. The act also contains some vocal music. The Teller Sisters and Ackland offer songs and dances in "Too Much Scotch." Janet Childs, comedienne; the Ricoro Brothers, in a novel act, and Smith and Sawyer in a comedy concert, "Merry Meant," also are on the stage. The photoplay is "Me, Gangster," a melodrama mixing politics and crookdom. Don Terry and June Collyer play the romantic leads. Short screen entertainment and an organlogue are on the bill.

Billie Dove in Regent Drama

"The Night Watch," presenting the theme of sacrifice and with most of the action taking place within one night aboard a French battleship, is the film feature in the Regent. Billie Dove is the star. The cast includes Donald Reed and Paul Lukas. In the picture the heroine sacrifices her own reputation to save her husband, an officer in the French navy. Short features on the bill include Vitaphone numbers.

Tech-Notre Dame Game on Screens

Highlights of Saturday's football game between Carnegie Tech and Notre Dame have been recorded by the motion picture cameras of the Stanley Company of America. This record is now being shown at two local theaters of that organization—the Stanley and the Liberty.

Nagel, McAvoy Olympic Stars

"Caught in the Fog," featuring Conrad Nagel and May McAvoy, is being shown in the Olympic. It is a crook comedy, with much of the action taking place on a millionaire's yacht off the Florida coast. Mack Swain, Hugh Herbert and Emil Chautard are among the players. Short features are on the bill.

SAILORS SING AND DANCE IN NIXON

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH.

"Hit the Deck," still riding high on the fickle seas of musical comedy success, has come sailing back to town. It put in at the Nixon last night—the same port that saw it acclaimed quite profusely on its maiden voyage here last March.

Many of the old "crew" again are on hand.

Queenie Smith continues to chase her sailor boy half way around the world. Charles Purcell still is the boy who is chased. Also on deck is the Hallelujah — singing Juanita Chefalo and the comedy boys, Charles Mitchell and Eddie Russell, Jr.

"Hit the Deck" is a lively nautical romance of laughs and music. Its dance steps have caught the rhythm of a swaying ship and much of its music, as presented by a sturdy male chorus, has something of the strength of the sea. And sandwiched in with all of its song, fun and dance steps are brief interludes of wistfulness and hints of pathos as the heroin strives for the heart of her sailor hero.

The production opens in Queenie Smith's coffee house on a Newport dock. There you hear some rousing songs, meet Margie, the parrot, and see Mr. Purcell dispose of a chicken dinner. Next comes the dock, with its Coney Island specialty. This is followed by the dance aboard the U. S. S. Nebraska, with the girls as society "swells" and the sailor boys just that. And here's where you hear "Sometimes I'm Happy." The waves of comedy of this scene take you far afloat and when the curtain goes up again China has been reached. There's another scene in a Mandarin's house and then its back to the coffee house again.

"Hit the Deck" is a merry theatrical cruise. The theater's box office has the "passports" and Queenie Smith, Mr. Purcell and associated players can be counted on for the rest.

GAYETY BILL IS GOOD STOCK

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

A charming and often tragic portrayal of war behind the lines was given by the Gayety Players last night in "Lilac Time." It is natural to make allowance for stock companies in view of the tremendous task of producing a new play each week but few excuses are necessary where this cast is concerned. It was a thoroughly finished performance.

There is romance, idealism, pathos in the play. There is everything that is not found in "What Price Glory." A French village a few miles from the front is the scene of both plays, but it is difficult to realize that it is the same war.

"Lilac Time" is the simple story of a French girl who found her one love in an English officer and who waited as month after month rolled by before he returned.

The play was remarkably well staged. Great attention to detail was evident in the scenery, which was admirably suited as a background for the youth which found love in the midst of death and desolation.

You will laugh at Mary Ann Dentler's portrayal of Jeannine and if you are sentimental you may cry with her.

The players form one of the best stock companies which have appeared in Pittsburgh. There is a smoothness about their work which leaves little of the impression of hasty preparation so often noticeable in stock presentations.

Robert Lowes was pleasing as the juvenile and Keneth Rowland gave an amusing interpretation of the very English, very flirtatious and rather irresponsible Lieut. George Smylie.

"Abie" Amuses As Grand Film

The screen version of Anne Nichols' popular play, "Abie's Irish Rose," is the principal attraction in the Grand. The photoplay is as good for as many laughs as the stage version was. It also retains and elaborates many angles of this romance between a Jewish boy and an Irish girl. The picture is offered with sound synchronization. Jean Hersholt does a grand job of the Jewish father role and J. Farrell MacDonald is quite glorious as the Irish father. Charles Rogers makes an interesting Abie and Nancy Carroll has appeal as Rosemary. The "Cohens" of the original stage version also are in the cast. The movie stresses some moments of pathos and thus acquires a balancing contrast to the many episodes of laughter. And just as in the stage play, you find the two fathers happily reconciled and celebrating grandchildren and Christmas together at the final fadeout. "Abie's Irish Rose" was a very successful play. As a movie it is entertaining and interesting.

HARRIS SHOW PRESENTS FARNUM

Franklin Farnum, movie personality, who is a brother of those other two screen actors, William and Dustin, has brought his chaps and cowboy hat to the Harris stage. He opened a three-day engagement there yesterday, telling a few stories, giving a sentimental recitation about the World War and singing Al Jolson's "Sonny Boy." The audience liked him well enough. Joseph Riddle, assisted by his accordion and Billie Cooke, is responsible for quite a lot of entertainment. Among other things, he plays the "Poet and Peasant Overture" on the accordion, which is a trick that calls for talent. "Mistakes Will Happen," a farcical skit, full of nonsense and buffoonery, catches a barrel full of laughs. Between the comics you hear a vocal rendition of Kipling's "On the Road to Mandalay." Gladys Joyce, billed as one of England's youngest concert pianists, heads an act of song and dance. Four other girls help her along. Other acts are M. Marinoff's Russian Circus and Ludlow and Wright in a novelty presentation. The photoplay is "Tenth Avenue," a melodrama of the underworld. The cast is headed by Phyllis Haver, Victor Varconi and Joseph Schildkraut. Short screen entertainment completes the bill.

Talk, Song in Aldine Picture

"The Melody of Love" opened yesterday as the week's photoplay in the Aldine. It presents the romance of a young song writer, who goes to France to battle in the trenches and returns to America to find his sweetheart hasn't been so very loyal to him. There's a lot of talking sequences in the picture and numerous others that feature vocal music. In fact, between the talking and singing, the story is unfolded in a rather slow, unsatisfactory way. Walter Pidgeon plays the hero and as such he sings as well as acts. Tom Dugan, playing the hero's wise-cracking buddy, is responsible for some bright comedy moments. The feminine principals are Mildred Harris and Jane Winton. There are some good battle "shots" in the piece, but their effectiveness has been stolen by the big war photoplays that have preceded them. Van and Schenck, the comedy singers, Ella Shields, male impersonator, and an Our Gang comedy, with sound, round out the bill.

ALVIN BILL, OPERETTA, PLEASES

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

"Golden Dawn," operetta with a dramatic story, diverting comedy interludes, exotic atmosphere, tropical setting and the novelty of costuming and choral work that an African locale and native intrigues afford, provided an evening of excellent entertainment for an Alvin audience at the opening of a return engagement last night.

The story in brief is that of a young British officer interned in a German prison camp in Africa and his romance with a supposed native girl whose skin is white. Their affairs of heart are complicated by efforts of natives, with the consent of the woman the girl calls her mother, to make her tabu and unmarriageable by wedding her to a tree-god.

The company is not quite the same as appeared here a year ago, one principal change in the cast being the appearance of Bonnie Emerie in the role of Dawn, played here originally by Louise Hunter. Her pleasing voice, some skill at dancing, acting ability and the quality the French call "chic" make her a favorite with the audience.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 80 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 80 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

OMAHA TERROR KILLS, BEATS, ATTACKS

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 20.—(INS.)—Three persons are dead, one is probably fatally injured, and a woman is suffering from blows inflicted when she was kidnaped and held in East Omaha swamps for three hours last night, according to a checkup by police into recent activities of Omaha's latest fiend murderer.

The victims are James Blackman, 74, who was found Sunday beaten to death in his home; Gertrude Resso, wife of a milkman, "ounded to death" before her children shortly after J. Resso, the husband, left on his route; Creda Brown, Mrs. Resso's sister, found lying in the Resso home, beaten to death upon a bed; Mr. and Mrs. G. Harold Stribling at their Carter Lake home, beaten early today.

Stribling was probably fatally injured. Mrs. Stribling was kidnaped and held captive three hours in the swamp and attacked, according to police. Mrs. Stribling described the attacker as "a light-skinned Negro about 21, 5 feet 7 inches tall, wearing a gray suit."

Penn. Mother Tells Story

Nature controls all the functions of our digestive organs except one. We have control over that, and it's the function that causes the most trouble.

See that your children form regular bowel habits, and at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, or constipation, give them a little California Fig Syrup. It regulates the bowels and stomach and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act as Nature intends them to. It helps build up and strengthen pale, listless, underweight children. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it's purely vegetable, so you can give it as often as your child's appetite lags or he seems feverish, cross or fretful.

Leading physicians have endorsed it for 50 years, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows how mothers depend on it. A Pennsylvania mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Steinle, 231 South Ithan St., Philadelphia, says: "George was terribly pulled down by constipation. He got weak, fretful and cross, had no appetite or energy and food seemed to sour in his stomach. California Fig Syrup had him romping and playing again in just a few days, and soon he was back to normal, looking better than he had looked in months."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. The mark of the genuine is the word "California" on the carton.

Additional Stage and Screen News

Another is the appearance of Robert Geddes in the leading male part. His singing and acting also pleases.

Other principals, in their original roles, include Nellie Breen as the vivacious litt. Red Cross nurse. Miss Breen is a real comedienne. Assisting her in the comedy are Gil Squires, a loose-limbed dancer whose solo stepping specialty amazes, and Richard Powell, as a tattered duke who also has a good comedy dancing number with Miss Breen. Richard Hale plays Shep Keys, native tyrant, whose song, "When I Crack My Whip," wins applause. The native witch dance by Jacques Cartier is a spectacular novelty.

In two acts and 11 scenes, "Golden Dawn" is a gorgeous thing with impressive music by Emerich Kalman and Herbert Stothart, set to a tale by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

Comedian Lead In Academy

"Kuddling Kuties" is the burlesque in the Academy. Max Fields plays the leading comedy role, Henri Kellar and Melva Lenzi help him in a specialty skit. May Leona sings several songs. A travesty, "The Wedding," in which Mabel Erickson plays the bride and Eddie Murphy the bridegroom, brings laughs. Ruth Donald, Eli Lucas and others present specialties. Jean Bodine, Parisian dancer, with her 12 dancing girls, and artists' models, complete the performance.

VOICE FILM PLEASES IN STANLEY

"The Home Towners," vocal photoplay in the Stanley this week, is a pleasing comedy with situations that cause many laughs, as well as being an example of the improvement of the audible quality of the "talkie." This is another Vitaphone picture without explanatory titles, the characters' voices being all that is required to bring out the fun, and that is plentiful. It also shows the influence of voice on the casting of pictures, for one sees and hears Richard Bennett, noted stage actor, in a role that likely would have been played by some film star if the picture were a silent one. Also Robert McWade, recruited from the stage. Gladys Brockwell and Doris Kenyon play the feminine leads. Well acted throughout and presenting an interesting story, "The Home Towners" will give any audience a thoroughly good time. It is quite lengthy, so only news pictures are shown on the screen besides the feature. The overture is a fantasy based on Shubert's "Serenade," arranged by Gabriel Hines, guest director of the orchestra. It gives much pleasure, as does an encore number alleged to give an idea of how Gabriel's trumpet will sound on judgment morning.

MISS DAVIES WINNER IN PENN

"Show People," presented on the Penn screen this week, co-starring Marion Davies and William Haines, is a real comedy with a background made up of episodes of the movie farce of the day when a pie hurled into the face and a long chase by cops who stopped every so often to leap into the air, was considered the height of screen hilarity. This, however, is not the real comedy, merely the background, as stated, for it is a picture that has gentle humor as well as the boisterous farce. The slapstick is introduced when Peggy Pepper, Georgia girl, played by Miss Davies, goes to Hollywood to become a dramatic actress and finds comedy the only avenue open to her, and that only through the assistance of a low comedian, played by Haines. She does get her chance in the serious drama, and a swell head also, and is brought back to earth when the young man who had befriended her saves her by the only means he knows how to employ, low comedy with an earnest purpose behind it. The picture is plenty of fun and, in addition to the stars, one gets a glimpse of Peggy Pepper high-hatting Charlie Chaplin, also brief views of Douglas Fairbanks, doing a parlor trick, William S. Hart and other film notables. Besides the comedy there is romance. Also an insight into the details of making photoplays that is interesting. It gives Miss Davies opportunities for characterization such as she has had in no other picture. Featured on the stage, Paul Mall's songs and comedy are the high spot of "Step on It;," other performers including Helen Wainwright, pleasing vocalist; Bud and Jack Pearson, dancers; Bernoff and Josephine, dancers, and the dancing chorus.

WELSH HERE HELP SEND STRANDED CHOIR HOME

The four Welsh societies of Pittsburgh—the American Gorsedd, the Women's Welsh Club, the Cambrian Society of the North Side and St. David's Society of the East End—met in Gorsedd headquarters last night and arranged to send back to Wales next week seven of the 14 members of the Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir. The other seven will remain in Pittsburgh for a longer period with friends and relatives.

Three weeks ago Mme. Gertrude Gronow, the conductress of the choir, which was touring the country giving concerts, became seriously ill in Pittsburgh. The choir found it necessary to cancel its engagements and to wait here for the recovery of Mme. Gronow. She is in the West Penn Hospital, and it is expected she will not regain her strength for two months.

The members of the choir were not prepared for so long a stay without income. Accordingly the local Welsh societies came to their assistance.

NAB SUSPECT IN BISHOP'S DEATH

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 20.—(A.P.)—Walter Moore, who police believe to be one of three youths implicated in the robbery of Bishop J. C. Hartzell here last June when the bishop was beaten so severely that he died, was held in the county jail last night on a charge of first degree murder.

Moore was returned here last night from West Union, where he was arrested yesterday for Hamilton county authorities.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

December Party Dates Tripping Over Each Other's Heels

DATES for these December parties are beginning to trip on each other's heels, and I am wondering where they can all be included in the limited scope of 31 days—no, 26 days, since we really should exclude Sundays. We think that every year, though, don't we, and somehow or other, everyone manages to attend all the affairs given for the debutantes, and during the holidays, for the school set. It's just a matter of perspective after all, I suppose. During the rush season the program works itself out satisfactorily, day by day, even though it does look rather impossible from the vantage point of mid-November.

The nexest date I have learned of is Saturday, December 22, when the Allegheny County Council of the Girl Scouts will give its annual dance in the Hotel Schenley. This is an affair that is always looked forward to with a good deal of anticipation, and I am sure this year its predecessors. The commissioner's wife, Mrs. Edward Vare Babcock, is in general charge of the affair, I believe.

And speaking of benefits, Mrs. Charles S. Wunderly, who is chairman of publicity for the ball which the St. Margaret's Hospital dispensary board will give one week from next Friday night in the University Club, has told me that one of the high lights of the party will be a fashion show. Several young women, two of the debutantes among them, are going to circulate among the guests, wearing some creations calculated to appeal to the eye of every woman there.

Mary Louise Johnson is in charge of this group, and she will also serve as a model. The others, I understand, will be Mrs. W. W. Blair, Jr., Mrs. Harvey Childs, III, Helen Leovy, Mrs. Shirley Austin, Marjorie Kimball, Josephine Nicola, Mrs. Sidney Stewart, Mrs. Thomas G. McCutcheon, Jr., Mrs. J. Porter Gillespie, Catherine Sursam, Mrs. Stuart Brown, and two of this season's buds, Jane Allderdice and Virginia Wilson.

PERHAPS you would be interested to know who are going to serve as attendants when Frank E. Rutan, Jr., son of Mrs. Frank E. Rutan, of Bryn Mawr and Sewickley, marries Frances Sloan, daughter of the Francis B. Sloans, of Ardmore. The wedding is set for December 8, you know.

Mr. Rutan is going to have his cousin, Frank G. Richardson, Jr., of Sewickley, for his best man, and his two sisters, Martha and Betty, are going to be among the bridesmaids. Frances was asked Sarah Browne to be her maid of honor, and in addition to Martha and Betty, the bridesmaids will include Marie Louise Baird, Mrs. Henry L. Collins, Jr., Mrs. William Dixon Stevens, of Hewlett, Long Island, and Alene Grace, of Bethlehem, Pa.

Mr. Rutan will take his bride to live at Argyle Court, Amberson and they will be at home there after January 1.

One of our returned travelers is Frances Johnston, daughter of the Norwood Johnstons, of Shady avenue, who is home again after spending about four months in Europe. Frances's home-coming, over the week-end to visit her parents, Mr. S. Davison Herron, the erstwhile Louise Johnston, and to attend the Princeton-Army game.

The Johnstons have opened their Pinehurst house for Thanksgiving, I've been told.

THE girls who are making their debut this winter and those who came out last season will be guests at the luncheon which Mrs. William Ritterhouse Kunz and her daughter, Virginia, will give tomorrow afternoon at their home in Boston place. They are giving their affair for three of the girls, Ruth Guile, Helen West and Rebecca Pollanstor, and I understand that there will be about 35 guests in all.

* * *

MRS. D. D. KIRBY is general chairman for the eighth annual ball of the Seton Hill Academy alumnae to be given November 28 in the William Penn Hotel. Mrs. E. T. Page and Mrs. William Munhall are in charge of finances; Mrs. John A. Martin and Mrs. Margaret Lawton, patronesses; Miss Agnes Kissane and Miss Roscolyce Leeman, invitations; Miss Kate H. Murphy and Miss Mildred Meclos, decorations; Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Jones and Miss Elizabeth Wholey, publicity; Mrs. W. L. Knorr and Mrs. Isabelle Stillwagon, supper; Mrs. J. Winston Johns, Miss Rose Conners, Miss Mary E. Harris, floor; Mrs. M. C. Schneider and Mrs. P. J. Reilly, door, and Miss Virginia Stillwagon and Miss Marie Sybert, music.

THE Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Van Camp, of Amber street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ada Romine Van Camp, and Joseph Kelso, Jr., of Clarksburg, W. Va., formerly of Pittsburgh, which was solemnized Friday in the Garden Tearoom by the Rev. Isaac Teal, of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church. Miss Gertrude Smith, of Washington, Pa., was maid of honor and George Kelso, of this city, was best man. A reception and breakfast followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Kelso will be at home in Clarksburg after an eastern motor trip.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE R. McALEENAN, of Beechwood boulevard, will entertain at dinner in their home tonight supplementing the rehearsal for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Jane Elizabeth McAleenan, and William John Stebler, which will take place tomorrow morning in St. Paul's Cathedral.

ROSE CHAPTER NO. 92 Order of the Eastern Star, will hold the third in a series of card parties tomorrow afternoon in Oppenheim-Collins' auditorium. Mrs. Eva L. Speer is chairman.

* * *

MRS. CHARLES HOEFTMAN, Mrs. Owen Mulvaney, Mrs. B. J. Mullen and Miss Marie Victory will be hostesses for the card party to be held tonight in Guild Hall, Center avenue, for the benefit of Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Women of the Sacred Heart Guild will hold a card party tomorrow night at the Raphael Home in Penn avenue.

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD ARTHUR LOMAX, of South Dallas avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Blossom Mellss Lomax and Andrew Gordon Watt, of Toronto, Canada, which was solemnized September 25.

Club Women Hear Nellie Tayloe Ross

NO agency nor combination of agencies can enforce prohibition so long as those high in office decline to uphold the prohibition laws and so fail to set an example for those who look to them for leadership. This was one of the most forceful points made by Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming, in her talk before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning. Individual responsibility in politics also was emphasized by Mrs. Ross, who was speaking primarily of her experiences in the governor's chair, made all the more difficult by reason of a hostile legislature and by the extraordinary demands upon her time because she was a woman. Mrs. Ross recalled that many people expected startling and revolutionary changes in the state when she became governor; she had even been asked if she contemplated dismissing all men from office and replacing them with women, and one newspaper writer, after expatiating on Mrs. Ross' domestic virtues, predicted that "it probably will be found that the hand that rocks the cradle rocks the state."

Unprecedented problems were met and solved by the first woman governor and, although her decisions were upheld by the State Supreme Court and the bar, in the campaign for re-election her opponents made an issue of "the governor's chair being no place for a woman." While she spoke of Alfred E. Smith as "my party's candidate," Mrs. Ross said she believed the women of the country were responsible for the election of Mr. Hoover because of their faith in his fitness for the office and because they felt his election would safeguard the governmental provisions for prohibition.

THAT things which have no permanence die out was stressed by Dr. Manuel C. Elmer, of the department of sociology, University of Pittsburgh, when he addressed the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club yesterday afternoon. Having as his subject, "The Passing of the Red Table Cloth," Dr. Elmer disagreed with those who accept the red tablecloth as a symbol of family life and its passing as a sign of the disorganization of the home. A musical program of great beauty was presented by Miss Helen Greenwood, accompanied by Miss Helen Machette. Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, a junior member, read the essay which won for her the State Federation prize. Mrs. H. J. Newman reported the peace conference held last Friday and Mrs. Ira C. Ewing offered the opening prayer.

A CAPACITY and enthusiastic audience heard Capt. John B. Noel's thrilling tale of the 1924 Mt. Everest expedition when he lectured last night under the joint auspices of the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club and the Edgewood Club. The story, quietly told and merely hinting at the heroism displayed by the members of the party, was accompanied by both still and motion pictures, marvelous achievements, some of which are exquisitely colored.

MRS. HAROLD D. FISH is chairman for tomorrow morning's meeting of the Woman's Alliance of the First Unitarian Church. The Rev. L. Walter Mason, pastor of the church, will speak on "The Coming Renaissance" and Dr. Roswell H. Johnson will have as his subject, "Russia's Relation to World Progress."

ITS Thanksgiving program was given yesterday by the Bellevue Outlook Club in the home of Mrs. M. E. Steck, Madison avenue. Mrs. J. D. Dollman, in charge of the program, presented Mrs. Howard Wandless, vocal soloist, and Miss Mildred Schwerin, who read.

THE Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club held its fall musicale yesterday in the Woman's City Club. A responsive audience heard the program, which was presented by Mrs. Estelle Healy Close, Mrs. Adele Eggers Furniss, Mrs. Emma Stucki Hansen, Mrs. Arthur B. Sivitor and Mrs. William L. Stone, vocalists; Miss Marjorie Belle Pyfer, Mrs. J. R. McGregor and Miss Ruth Simon, pianists, with Mrs. William T. Patterson, Mrs. Herman Ziel and Miss Simon as accompanists. The social committee, of which Mrs. William B. Epley is chairman, had charge of the tea hour.

ANOTHER bit of news from the East concerns Banning Grange, daughter of Mrs. William Drayton Grange, of Bryn Mawr, who has visited here so often. Banning is going to give a dinner November 30, I hear, preceding the hunt ball, at which Mary Spotswood Harrison will be introduced at the Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia.

UNDER the direction of the music and art committee Mrs. Christine Miller Clemson will appear in recital before the Twentieth Century Club Thursday afternoon. Earl Mitchell will accompany Mrs. Clemson.

Richer and mellower than others
··a flavor specially blended

Distinguished travelers in the Old South came home enthusiastic about the superlatively fine coffee that was served to them at the old Maxwell House in Nashville. "It's good to the last drop," they declared. That matchless flavor that has won fame for Maxwell House Coffee is a particular blend of many rare coffee flavors. Rich, mellow, full-bodied, Maxwell House Coffee is the first ever to please critical people all over the country. It is the choice today of America's social leaders.

SUGAR IMPROVES FRUIT FLAVORS

Makes these healthful foods delightful to the taste

The human body needs fruits, to be well-fed and healthy, and each person should eat at least one raw and one cooked fruit each day. Here are the health-giving elements that fruits bring to us: needed roughage, fruit vitamines, mineral salts, and beneficial fruit acids.

And, thanks to sugar, fruits can also be beneficial in another way. The harsh or sour acids, by being sweetened to taste, can be turned into delightful flavors that add enjoyment to eating. As a famous food scientist states it, "The fruit acids are softened by sugar. The fruit flavors are developed by sugar. Sugar promotes and facilitates the ingestion of fruits."

There are few people in the world who do not relish the delicious flavors of orange and grapefruit salad, sweetened to taste. One of the most welcome beverages to any palate is hot lemonade.

And remember that stewed fresh apples or pears or stewed dried peaches, prunes or apricots are excellent for breakfast. For dinner, think of apple sauce with pork, and cranberry sauce with any kind of roast fowl or meat. Baked apples or pears and fruit pies are delicious, as well as healthful, for dessert.

Eating should be enjoyable as well as healthful. The use of sugar, on raw fruits and in cooking, is the friend of food enjoyment. The Sugar Institute.

The new Radiola 41
an "all-electric" receiver with Electro-Dynamic Speaker for $215

The Radio Corporation of America introduces this week another fine cabinet receiver at the remarkably low price of $215.

It employs the popular tuned-radio-frequency circuit adopted by so many leading manufacturers of high-quality sets. "All-electric" operation, of course.

The chief feature of the "41" design is the use of the new RCA Electro-Dynamic speaker. Music and the voice are reproduced with all the full and mellow richness of the original. An unusually large "baffle board" contributes to the realism of reproduction.

Any RCA Radiola Dealer will demonstrate this new Radiola in your home. Purchase may be made on the convenient RCA Time Payment Plan.

URGES FLAG DISPLAYED ON ALL CITY BUILDINGS

Weaver H. Rogers, president of Pittsburgh Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, has addressed a letter to Council asking the city to insure the display of the American flag on public buildings from sunrise to sunset.

He also requested that suitable flag staffs be attached to such structures where they are missing and that a supply of flags of regulation size be furnished where needed.

The writer "noted with regret" that many "engine houses and other public buildings do not display the national emblem."

Bear Hit by Car Heads for Timber

RIDGWAY, Pa., Nov. 20.—A bear was struck and run over by a car three miles from Ridgway on the Book Jack road. The car was driven by Floyd Olephant, of Ridgway. He first saw the shadow of the bear but could not avoid hitting it. His car then ran over the neck of the animal. It fled into the woods.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture.

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

Woman Dies in Fire At Punxsutawney

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Nov. 20.—Mrs. George Aber, 68, was probably fatally burned yesterday when her clothing caught fire from a gas stove in the kitchen of her home.

BOYS RE-ENACT SLAYING OF CHUM

Re-enacting today the accidental shooting to death of their playmate, Michael Rabish, 13, of Morgan, near Bridgeville, George and Anthony Simpson, 13 and 11, respectively, revealed, county detectives say, that the victim was still alive when his body was dumped into a clump of bushes.

The two Simpson boys, who confessed yesterday and lifted the veil of mystery from the shooting of last Thursday, enacted the fatal shooting for County Detectives R. L. McMillen and Frank Ritz, starting in the kitchen of the Simpson home in Treveskyn.

George, with a revolver, descended the stairway, where his brother and Rabish had been standing. George held the hammer of the revolver lifted with his right thumb, and twirled the chamber with his left hand. Rabish was standing at the kitchen door, which swings both ways. As the shot was fired, he fell backward, pushed the door outward and struck the back of his head on the concrete. The two brothers then demonstrated how they carried and at times dragged the body 300 yards up a hillside. The victim moaned all the time. He couldn't talk.

Hurrying back to the house they washed the blood from the doorstep and hid the revolver.

WOMEN IN SPOTLIGHT IN WELFARE CAMPAIGN

Honoring the women of Allegheny county for their important part in the $965,679 campaign of the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh, today's meeting at the William Penn Hotel was given over entirely to the direction of the women's division. Of $510,710.86 subscribed to date, the women workers are credited with having obtained contributions of more than 40 per cent of the total amount.

Total subscriptions of $55,634.46 reported today brought the grand total to $566,345.32.

Mrs. William Frew, chairman of the women's division, presided, and Mrs. John M. Phillips, the principal speaker. A novel program was presented and visiting nurses of the Public Health Nursing Association had a conspicuous part in the exercises.

The house-to-house canvass, carried on largely by women, is proving extraordinarily successful, according to estimates furnished by the early reports. In few districts have the workers visited all the homes assigned and partial returns are declared to indicate that the total contributions obtained in this manner will eclipse any canvass ever held in Allegheny county for philanthropic purposes.

Thus far the boroughs and townships have reported $19,884.95 in the house-to-house canvass, while the city has yielded $12,629.05. The weather has hindered the progress of the solicitors and they have been instructed to continue their work until Thursday.

While the house-to-house canvass is more than coming up to expectations, the chairmen said, a real surprise was sprung by Chairman A. W. Robertson, of the employes' division. In 112 stores, transportation companies, factories and industrial plants the salaried employes and wage earners have organized teams on their own account and the showing made in early reports from this source is said to indicate an overwhelming sentiment of approval of the Welfare Fund's plan of the joint financing of the philanthropic organizations.

Justice Holmes Ill With Slight Cold

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, now in his 87th year of age, yesterday missed a session of the Supreme Court, for the first time during the present term. It was stated at his residence that he had a slight cold, and was following the advice of his physician to remain indoors a few days.

Make Dishes Sparkle? Yes

Hard on Hands? No

Here Madam, is an utterly new-type cleanser that turns grease into soap. Cleans, scours, polishes, all in one.

See how these glasses glisten and just think, they weren't polished a bit. That's what Old Witch does... note also handy-grip bottle.

GET ready for a pleasant surprise! Be prepared to change your past ideas about dishwashing. You're going to hear something new.

It's about an entirely new-type cleanser... that washes dishes without scrubbing.

That polishes china... without rubbing.

That removes a 1-16 inch film of frying pan fat in 10 seconds... and actually turns grease into soap.

It's a super-cleaner... an ammoniated cleaner in fluid form... 3 times as efficient as ordinary household ammonia. That cleans... scours... polishes... all in one.

Easy to Wash Dishes Now

Forget all about that tedious drudgery. Dishwashing isn't going to be hard work any more. Not a bit of it.

You simply add a few drops of this magic fluid to your dishwater... use soap as you always do... and let this cleaner do the work.

It softens the water. Saponifies the grease. Instantly removes every clinging particle of food.

Out come the dishes spick and span... bright and sparkling as they never did before. It's simply amazing to see how clean they look.

No wonder women are so enthusiastic! They all agree that a new era of workless dishwashing has arrived.

Old Witch

AMMONIATED CLEANING FLUID

The name, Madam, of this new cleanser is "Old Witch" and simply in fairness to yourself, we ask you to make a test.

Please Test and Compare

Try "Old Witch" in your dishpan... and judge it entirely by results.

It costs only 3c a day... penny a dishwashing... so you see it's not expensive.

Your grocer has it. Just ask him for "Old Witch" the new type cleansing fluid everybody's using.

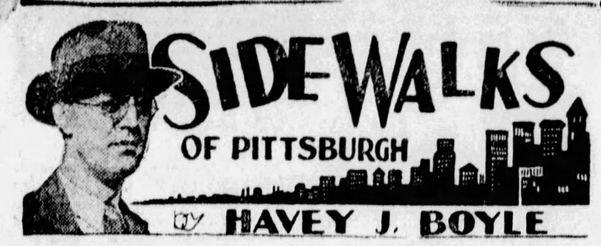
METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

FOUR ARE INJURED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS



LAWRENCE B. M'CABE, of Homewood, is doomed to wear a brown derby for quite a spell. In the recent pre-election fever Mr. McCabe had a great faith in the Brown Derby and so announced himself. There followed one of those election wagers.

If you know that Lawrence McCabe is a mortician the fact that he must wear a brown derby may take on added significance. As a rule the undertaking guild rivals the clergy in chaste and somber attire.

A curious person asked one of the austere ladies who sell movie tickets in the gilded cages of the lobbies whether many people walked away, leaving their change. "Quite a few," she said as she took a new hold on her chewing gum. "And do you call their attention to the error?" she was asked. "Yes," she replied, "I always rap on the window with this sponge."

AND, of course, you heard about the local bird dealer who wagers a customer that a certain canary had the homing instinct. That is, it would always return to the bird dealer, if given its freedom. The customer accepted the wager and took the bird to California. After a few months he returned to Pittsburgh to collect the bet. The canary, he said, was still in California. "No," said the dealer triumphantly, "there's the canary in that cage." "That can't be the same canary," said the other man, "because, as a matter of fact, I clipped the canary's wings when I removed it to California." "I know that," said the dealer, "this bird here has clipped wings—but you should see the sore feet on this bird."

And recently at the South Hills Country Club an unknown dub proposed to Enos Kirkpatrick that they play around and bet $50 a hole. "Are you just starting to play?" asked Enos. "Yes," said the dub, "but I have a lot of confidence."

The stranger swung and missed the ball completely. Enos suggested calling off the bet. But the stranger refused. He took another cut and missed again. Again he refused to call off the bet. But after he missed the third swing and Kirkpatrick once more suggested that they call off the bet, the dub then gave in, saying: "I guess you're right. I didn't know this course was such a tough one."

AUSTIN C. ROWELL writes: "Sometime ago you had something in about the youngest or one of the youngest Spanish-American War veterans. My candidate is Morry Goldman. He enlisted in June, 1900, in the Regular Army and served a three-year hitch. He was born on May 18, 1886, so he was 14 when he enlisted. There are many Navy apprentices who were only 12 years old when they started, and trumpeter boys in the Marines who enlisted then at 14, but Comrade Goldman is the youngest Army man I know eligible to hold membership in the Spanish-American War Veterans."

Our little feathered friends as well as squirrels cause quite a bit of commotion in the local public service companies' affairs. Just recently, reports Grafton Duvall, an inquisitive and industrious woodpecker imprudently began examining, in his native way, a lightning arrester at the Graham Nut and Bolt Company's sub-station in Coraopolis. There was a flash and our little feathered friend was catapulted into eternity. Service was hampered for four minutes as the result of the woodpecker's incautious industry.

What the squirrels do is not set forth. Those, we have noticed, however, try to get on the street car first and then stand right in front of the doorway.

ONCE GREAT ACTOR, NOW TRANSIENT ENTERTAINER

From an actor of Shakespearean roles with Sir Henry Irving and Ellen Terry to peripatetic entertainer, is the story of Ben Scovell.

Once sharing the glamour of the greatest stars the English stage has known, Scovell, a nephew of the famed Irving, now goes from city to city, playing one-man dramas in churches, schools, lodges, clubs or wherever an audience gathers.

Wounded in the British trenches early in the World War, he returned to do "his bit" for the boys at the front by diverting them with skits and impersonations, receiving thereby the praise of Sir Douglas Haig and other military chieftains.

Today, at 60, he recalls, somewhat wistfully, his days with the great English actors.

"I met Ellen Terry early in 1883 and thought her the most beautiful actress in the world," said Scovell. "She was leading woman to Sir Henry Irving, who was my mother's brother. His real name was John Henry Brodribb. My mother's name was Mary Brodribb. He changed his name because the family rebelled at his becoming an actor. They intended him for the clergy. He was the first actor to be knighted by Queen Victoria and the only actor to be buried in Westminster Abbey.

"I joined Sir Henry's company on returning from the Boer War. Ellen Terry was still his leading lady. I had the pleasure of playing Antonio in the 'Merchant of Venice' to her Portia; MacDuff opposite her Lady MacBeth in 'MacBeth' and Horatio in 'Hamlet.' She played Ophelia. Her 'Katherine' in 'The Taming of the Shrew,' was, I think, her best role. Others think Portia was her best. Be that as it may.

"The following year, 1902, Miss Terry left Irving. I remained with him until the night he died, October 13, 1905. We were playing Tennyson's 'Becket' in Bradford, Yorkshire, England, when he passed out.

"Shakespeare? He's far from dead. After a while he'll come back greater than ever. Now the movies have pushed him into oblivion but the public will gradually come back into the light of Shakespeare and his classics. The great war stunned us, but when the right time comes, great actors like Booth, Irving, Mansfield will rise to take the place of the Old Guard."

Scovell will appear tomorrow night in a three-act drama, "The Sign of the Cross," at Church Night services in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church.

Brings Habeas Writ To Gain Freedom

Boots Allen a showman, living in Vancourt street, McKeesport, started habeas corpus proceedings yesterday to obtain his freedom from the workhouse. He was arrested in Clairton October 26 last and ordered to pay a fine of $100 in default of which he was sent to the workhouse for 90 days. His counsel, R. L. Vann, claims the sentence was illegal. Allen was on duty as night watchman when arrested and claims he was not allowed to produce witnesses, the writ not setting forth the nature of the charge. Judge Thomas J. Ford will hear the case Thursday.

80,000 Persons Attend Art Exhibit

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.

I am a great believer in all things happening for the best.

Now, take Raskob. I guess it's just as well he wasn't a success in politics, for don't he go right to work and put out the cheapest six-cylinder car on the market.

A cheap car means more to the people than all the "burning issues of this great campaign." Now maybe, after January first Al will settle down and get his mind on something practical.

Hoover has to hurry up and get to South America before Calvin makes a speech and declares war on 'em.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

BUGS BAER Says

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

PRESIDENT Cal certainly violated no confidential covenants when he startled the five-tube world by broadcasting our naval secrets.

We cannot understand what made Cal get off his small-navy diet.

Overnight he went in for proteins and armored calories with the result that the navy gained five hundred million tons in one meal.

Nobody will know what changed Cal from a small-navy man to a big-navy student.

You all remember what happened a few years ago after one of those Geneva shindigs.

Geneva is the town where the Red Cross started and the double-cross never even hesitated.

We had a beautiful navy at that time, but that conference flattened it.

"Our armament motto became, first in war, second in peace conferences and third in the hearts of the junk man."

They took our nice navy out like a cat in a bag. We did not even have enough boats left to take Robinson Crusoe off his island.

Suddenly, Cal took a country twist on the situation and realized that a nation without a navy was a heel without a shoe.

Now, when the children sing, "The Army and Navy Forever," they won't mean a Boy Scout in a canoe.

We are glad that Cal has decided to launch a big turkey for future thanksgivings.

And after that big navy is all built—

Along will come another pieces conference.

But think of all the fun we will get scrapping it.

RAIL POLICEMAN HELD AS THIEF

H. J. Hollock of 1612 Brighton road is being held by Federal authorities pending a hearing before the United States Commissioner on a charge of stealing from freight cars. CHARGE COUNTY WORKS DEPT. LACKS ACCURACY

A "serious and inexcusable lack of accuracy" in certain specifications prepared by the County Department of Public Works during 1927 was discovered during the audit of the county's fiscal affairs, according to a report made by Ernst & Ernst, accountants, to Controller Robert G. Woodside.

Summarized briefly, the findings of the auditors were:

First, that while most contracts during 1927 were properly advertised, a number were awarded without advertisements asking competitive bids as required by law.

Second, that the payroll system in use that year presented an opportunity for irregularities. This system has been changed since by the controller.

Third, that certain records of the department are inadequate and kept without proper supervision.

Fourth, that there is lack of sufficient care in preparing contract specifications.

The report of the auditors on the public works department was a document of 119 typewritten pages, including a study of the $11,535,615 expended by the department during the year and 14 pages of recommendations and comment.

A summary of last section, prepared by the auditors, follows:

"The report states that in connection with the examination of contracts, it was noted that most contracts had been properly advertised in accordance with the law, but it was also noted that certain contracts awarded prior to 1927, in connection with the expenditure of electors' bond funds during 1927, had been awarded apparently without proper advertisement for competitive bids.

"These contracts, Ernst & Ernst were advised, were considered as extensions of other contracts, although they involved the expenditure of amounts in some instances in excess of the original contracts.

"The auditors also state that they found numerous instances where the final estimates on contracts showed that certain items in the original specifications were materially overstated and other items understated or omitted. These differences, the auditors say, were so numerous and of such proportions as to indicate to them a serious and inexcusable lack of accuracy in the original specifications, or carelessness.

"In other words, in the paying of the contract price, items were paid for which were not included in the original specifications and other items were included in the original specifications which were not paid for.

"However, since January 1, 1928, County Controller Woodside has caused this practice to be discontinued.

CHANCE FOR CHEATING

"Pay rolls, vouchers, etc., in support of cash disbursements were examined by Ernst & Ernst and only minor clerical exceptions taken thereto. Ernst & Ernst state that in connection with their examination of pay rolls, it had not been the custom to require each employe to sign for his pay, but that one employe was permitted to receipt for the pay of a group of other employes.

"It was pointed out that inasmuch as many divisions of employes were paid in cash and the employes who receipted for the pay of other employes was sometimes the individual who prepared the pay roll, this method presented an opportunity for irregularities and furnished the county with very little check or verification of the correctness of certain pay rolls.

"Pay rolls of the department show that there were 1,800 employes during the month of August, 1927. Controller Woodside on the recommendation of Ernst & Ernst and under their direction has installed an entirely new pay roll system which will permit his office to better verify the propriety of disbursements for salaries and wages of all county employes, including the department of public works.

"Ernst & Ernst say in closing their report that, in their opinion, certain of the records of the department are inadequate and are kept without proper supervision or control.

"They also state that in their opinion there was not sufficient care taken in the preparation of contract specifications as indicated by the numerous instances of wide variation between original contract specifications and final estimate."

SUFFERED YEARS; NOW RELIEVED!

Apollo Lady Says Ten Herbs Did Wonders for Her; Stomach and Liver Benefited.

"To my great surprise, Ten Herbs has given me relief from stomach trouble, with which I had suffered for four long years," was the statement of Mrs. Maud Hazlett, 307 Clifford Street, Apollo, Pa. (near Pittsburgh), to the Ten Herbs Man.

MRS. MAUD HAZLETT

who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this new herbal medicine, which has thousands of friends throughout this section.

"I suffered constantly with indigestion," Mrs. Hazlett continued. "Gas caused me to bloat and belch, even if I ate only a small amount of food. Gas would crowd around my heart and cause terrible pains and I was very short of breath. Cabbage, potatoes and meat I could not eat at all, because of the misery that would follow. I had no appetite, and my tongue was always coated. Bilious headaches and dizzy spells came on me and I was so nervous that I could not sleep well. At times my vision was blurred and everything turned black. Sometimes the pains across my back felt like a knife was cutting me. Constipation caused me to take physics regularly.

"I read in the papers about your wonderful Ten Herbs and started using your medicine. Now I am free of stomach trouble. I can eat almost anything without having gas, bloating, belching or pains around my heart. Shortness of breath has been relieved. My appetite is good and my tongue is no longer coated. My liver has been benefited, as bilious headaches and dizzy spells are gone. My nerves are quiet and I sleep soundly through the whole night. Constipation has been corrected and the pains are gone from across my back. Ten Herbs has done wonders for me, for I feel a hundred per cent better today than I have in years. I am pleased to give your medicine a public endorsement."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

STOLEN LOVE

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Bill Tells Ruth That Rollo Keyes Is Madly in Love With Her

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Bill comes home and discovers that Joan is close at hand. Joan meets Bill again and discovers Ruth Gillespie, one of the girls at the shop, is deeply in love with him. Joan becomes engaged to Curtis. She later tells him about her old love affair with Bill and wants to break their engagement. Curtis leaves town to try to forget her, but returns when he finds he still loves her. Bill returns and Joan sees him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"WELL—it may not amount to so much," he said with a little deprecating grin. "Still, it's a big thing for me, getting in with Keyes like that—he's a prince, Ruthie. When you know him better—"

"I'm never going to know him any better—not if I see him first!"

"Oh, come, come—don't you see that all this will put Rollo on his feet, too? You didn't think I'd forget a pal, did you? Why, Ruth, it won't be any time before you and Rollo—"

She leaned away and took his hand again. "Will'um—don't. Don't say any more until I tell you something."

"Why, Ruth—you aren't crying! Well, for—"

She nodded, her big brown eyes brimming. "You're darn right I am, Will'um—I didn't want to tell you—but damn it—I've got to—"

Bill had forgotten how pretty she was, with her lovely pink skin, and her round brown eyes, soft and appealing now, brimming with tears.

He squeezed her hand comfortingly, and the tears overflowed, rolled pathetically down her cheeks.

"It's about Rollo," she said between sobs.

"Well, you don't have to worry about him. He'll be faithful to the judgment day."

"That's just it—I'm not going to wait for any man till the judgment day. I'm getting tired of it. He has no right—"

"But Ruth, I was just telling you—this new deal with Keyes—"

She made a little face, and dabbed at her eyes with a wisp of handkerchief. "Bill, I'm trying to tell you, and you keep interrupting. Rollo's a good kid—I—I'm crazy about Rollo—but he put me off too long. I've lost interest, Will'um. I've lost my fine enthusiasm for being Mrs. Rollo Keyes, I—"

"So you don't love Rollo," he said slowly.

"I never said I did."

"But he thinks you do—he thinks the world and all of you, Ruth. Don't you think you could ever—" he broke off nervously. "I wish you hadn't told me—"

She came and stood beside him, her lovely face close to his. "But there's no one else I could tell it to, Will'um—nobody at all. You've got to help me out of this, I don't know what to do. Oh, darn that waiter—always poking his ugly mug in here—come up to my room where we can talk."

"But I couldn't tonight, Ruth."

"Some other girl—I know—"

"Two other girls," he smiled, and looked at his watch. "I've got to meet a fellow in 15 minutes, and I ought to dash up to the hotel and dress first—"

"You look very beautiful now—"

"Just time to put you in a taxi and send you home."

"But when am I going to see you again, Will'um? You know what Rollo is when he gets his mind on anything—you've got to help me—I haven't anybody else. Tomorrow—come tomorrow—"

"I couldn't tomorrow—"

"Will'um are you trying to ditch me?"

"No, but I couldn't come then. The day after—will that do."

"I suppose so, bye-bye, Will'um, honey—see you Friday!"

The taxi chugged away, her bright face at the window blurred and was gone.

Slowly he walked to the hotel, buying all the evening papers on the way. One of them might have a picture of Joan.

The Farleys' dinner was over early, thank goodness. Joan came in yawning, although it was just half past ten. "Ooh, I'm sleepy. They're the dullest people I ever met in my life. But old, old friends of the Barstow's, so we had to go. I'm dead for sleep. So's Curtis. He's so tired he's cross—Curtis—" She laughed unsteadily. "Can you imagine Curtis being cross, Maisie?"

"Well, most men get that way once in a while—"

"Why don't you go to bed if you're sleepy?" Maisie asked sensibly. "The one night you could get a little rest, you stand around and talk!"

"But I wanted to tell you about the week-end, Maisie, would you be very lonely if I went up to the cabin with Curtis—"

"If you what?"

"Oh, Maisie—you do look so funny!" Joan dropped into the rocker, and shook with laughter. "Oh, dear—I'm so tired I'm foolish. The cabin in the Santa Cruz Mountains where we were at Thanksgiving. Mrs. Barstow and Mrs. Cunningham, I think—some friend of hers anyway—and another couple, the Lairds I believe. Won't it be great? A whole week-end, and not a formal dinner!" She laughed again, and yawned. "I hope we have lots of picnics—you won't be lonely, Maisie?"

Maisie beamed. "Well—if that won't work out just fine. Here I had a letter from Gerald, that's my oldest boy in Stockton, asking me for their wedding anniversary on Saturday. They're going to have quite a big time. I was thinkin' I might go."

Packing. The small flat was in an uproar. Packages. Expressmen. Delivery boys. Maisie was equipped for six months at the North Pole, instead of three days at Stockton.

"Goodbye, dearie . . . have a good time yourself . . . you won't be lonesome if you get home before I do? You better call up Mis' Harvey, an' have her come stay with you . . . well, it's all right if you don't want her . . . goodbye . . . goodbye!"

Maisie was on her way!

Curtis . . . Joan's mouth twitched. She sank in an ungraceful little heap on the floor beside the open suitcase, looking at it with unseeing eyes.

"Oh, Curtis . . . dear . . . if I can only make up to you—for everything—and forget . . . forget everything else . . ."

Brr . . . Brr . . . Brr . . . The telephone, jangling, insistent.

CHAPTER XXXI.

"JOHNNIE, is that you?" Curtis's voice came over the wire, metallic and indistinct. "I'm going to be a little late. Can't leave until around noon, will that be all right?" Mother and the rest are starting now with Roberts, and we'll follow in the small car. I can't hear you, Joan . . . what did you say?"

"Oh, that's splendid!" she cried. "That will give me time to go down to the shop for an hour and finish something I was working on. You don't mind calling for me there?"

"No," he said after a pause. "I'll call for you. Around 11."

After he had hung up he leaned against the wall in the stuffy public booth from which he had telephoned, and wiped his forehead with a shaking hand. Ridiculous to get so upset over a thing like this, a thing that was done every day. He was a fool to even give it a second thought . . . and yet . . .

His hand went back to the receiver. For two pins he'd call his mother now, get her to come. . . . No, that wouldn't do. That would never do, Joan would get to talking and she'd see . . . And suppose he did back down now, what would be the gain?

He was walking back to the office now. Brushing past people, elbowing through the crowd, blind to them as a sleep walker, lost in his aching, muddled thoughts. Thoughts of Joan as his wife. His ring on her hand. And the little whisper of gossip growing . . . growing . . . "One on Barstow . . . ha, ha, wonder how he got caught? Must be a sap to fall for a girl like that . . . a girl with a past . . . ha, ha—"

He could almost hear them laughing, laughing at him! Well, he could stop that. He'd lose no more time in breaking that off. No one would ever pity him as he had pitied the poor fool of a trusting sailor—Blanche's husband . . .

"Oh, Joan—Joan—why did you treat me so? Why did you—"

He jumped back quickly—just in time to avoid being run down by a truck at the corner.

That brought him to his senses. Almost killed, worrying over her. He shook himself, brushed a hand against his eyes. That settled it. He could be killed in the street, and all she was thinking about was finishing some damned old dress for Francine. He might have known from the beginning, any girl that could work with that creature and live with her common, garrulous old mother. . . . His resentment grew, burningly, consuming him in its fire. He was really sick by the time he reached the office. But the misgivings were gone. Very well, it was his turn now.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Just Rub Away Danger

Influenza, Pneumonia and Grippe usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old Mustard plaster without blistering.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Stubborn Cough Quickly Ended by Famous Recipe

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that usually follow the "flu."

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Host Pays

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I was walking with a girl, and we met another couple whom I never met before. The young man suggested that we join them and asked us to have a soda with them. Who should offer to pay the bill?

2. If the other party pays the bill, is it proper for me to offer to reimburse him for half the amount, although very small? Or would it be sufficient just to thank him? K. M.

THE young man who suggested that you join them for a soda pays the check for the soda. Since he extended the invitation, he, as host, pays for the hospitality he suggested.

2. No, it would not be proper or polite for you to offer to pay for any part of the amount. It would be awkward for him, and he might even be socially hurt by the fact that you misunderstood his invitation. Thank him for his friendliness and say how much you enjoyed the party. And probably an opportunity will appear soon for you to return the invitation.

The Foursome

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When out with another couple, must you ask your friend's permission to dance with the other young man? M. H.

NOT if there is a party of four like this.

Don't Misinterpret

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

The other day a question in our office, whether or not it was proper for a bride-to-be to outfit her maid of honor, providing she is financially able to do so. Some say it is proper, and others say it is done for show.

Will you kindly tell me which is correct? J. K.

IT is not customary for the bride-to-be to furnish the outfit of her attendants. It is proper for her to do so if she wishes to do so, but it is very rarely done, even by a bride who is financially able to do it. Brides of great wealth sometimes do it, but usually they plan to supply only one detail of the costume, usually the hat.

There is no reason why one should accuse the bride of doing this "for show." I think that this is unnecessarily unkind, for the brides that I have known who supplied the costumes of their attendants have done it with a sincere and most kind wish to make it as easy as possible for their friends to act as their attendants. You see, often it is a great sacrifice for a girl, who is not overly endowed with money, to buy an expensive costume, and the rich bride who is kind and generous will see that it is made easy for her. But this kindness should not be misinterpreted as being of a show-off nature.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

What We Women Know

TO MOST women, marriage is an adventure at twenty, a compromise at thirty, an experiment at forty—and a mistake at fifty.

Love is that sudden revulsion of feeling, which makes a man fancy that one sort of girl can make him happy for life, simply because he happens to be deadly tired of the other sort.

No woman will deny that marvelous powers of the psychic mediums, as long as they can induce a dead husband to carry on a connected conversation with his wife—which was more than he probably ever did in life.

HELEN ROWLAND

In these days of amateur-vamping, almost any 16-year-old can outpet a professional man-tamer and make Cleopatra look as innocuous as a pink ice cream soda.

A good "line" may thrill the flapper, but a sophisticated girl can distinguish a machine-made compliment from an inspired one as quickly as she can tell a $5 hat from a $40 import.

Lots of the most brilliant debates are extemporaneous, and most of them on such trivial subjects as who left the burning cigaret on the piano and who shall give the dog his Sunday bath.

Those worry-wrinkles between a married woman's eyes are merely "service stripes" acquired by long years of watchful waiting and militant matrimonial duty.

The main difference between a man's wife and his private secretary is just the difference between a dutiful proximity and a piquant propinquity.

The modern woman's cross-word puzzle: To find a man whose heart contains a four-letter word meaning romantic affection.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

If "Stomach Ache" Follows Breakfast

THERE are many causes for the "stomach ache." Ordinarily we regard this symptom as a sign of indigestion. If it is a daily visitor, appearing after each meal, it may indicate something more important. Appetite is a compelling thing. Sitting down at a table, groaning under a multitude of good things to eat, the sight causes every good resolution to fly out of the window. You eat joyously of dishes you know will cause discomfort.

DR. COPELAND

This is where a little study is needed. You should undertake to find what is responsible for your trouble.

Here is a kind of "heartburn" with belching, that appears two or three hours after eating. It appears to be caused or made worse by including fat meat in the diet.

Perhaps you are fond of bacon, eating a couple of strips with the breakfast. It may be your habit to take a couple of helpings of butter to cover the toast or hot roll.

Fats are not digested in the stomach. They pass into the small intestine to be acted upon by the bile and the secretion of the pancreas.

If they happen to be fats of "high melting point" they require considerable digestive effort to be used. Indeed, some fats, like tallow, are not digested. The organs give up and the material passes on and out of the body without being digested.

You may not understand what I mean by "fats of high melting point." I shall explain. The oils, like olive and corn oil, are fluid—that is, they are in melted form at the ordinary temperature of the house.

Butter requires more heat to dissolve. Pork fat takes a lot more heat because it melts only at a temperature far above the normal temperature of the body.

If you eat any considerable quantity of high temperature fat, or even of moderate temperature, the intestinal action may be delayed. Fermentation is likely to follow. The next step is the form of distress we call heartburn.

If you are subject to attacks of indigestion of this nature, experiment a bit with your eating. Cut out the fats for a few mornings and see how you fare.

There is a good deal of fat, too, in the yolk of the egg. It is unlikely that a single egg would bother you, but two or three might.

Persons who have habitual constipation are apt to have belching of gas, bloating and distress after eating. Our diet should be so regulated as to overcome this symptom. Regular bowel movements, perhaps two or three in a day, are essential to comfort and perfect health.

Of course, there are dozens of causes for indigestion. I have named a couple only. At other times more will be said on this subject, but this is enough, for today.

Nothing can be counted a greater blessing than the ability to digest food. It adds a lot to your comfort and a good deal to your expectation of life.

WINTER

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

HAIL, WINTER! On all sides we hear the greeting given the King of the Seasons! To some it means the never-ending joys of snow and brisk winds that whip the roses into the cheeks and make one thrill to the joy of life. Out come the skates and the skiis and the toboggans and away they go! Snow men spring out and snow balls find laughing targets and many a romance is tucked away into a soft handful of snow.

That is, for some, all these joys mean Winter! But others think of it as a cold, shivery time of misery. So away they hie to Southern climes, where they can still find sunshine and surf. Like orchids that die when exposed to a cold wind, so these human hothouse plants rush away in search of the never-ending sunshine.

It's all in the way you look at it, though. Personally, Winter means so much that is joyous and happy and thrilling. Is there anything to compare with the ring of skates on the crystal ice and the sense of floating and flying through the pelting snow flakes? The joy of a snow ball fight and the warmth of a cozy fire and toasted marshmallows after the brisk cold of a joyous Winter day. That's life!

But that's how it goes—Winter means snow and skates for some and sunshine and surf for others. And their lives are as their inclinations. Just look around you and see if I'm not right!

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A CONTINUATION OF LOVE'S EMBERS

By ADELE GARRISON

Marion Exhibits Her Secret "Fortune" to Madge

FROM my early childhood the idea of a secret compartment in a box, or a hidden sliding panel in a wall has intrigued me. I know that I am not alone in this, that thousands of people with romantic imaginations, share my liking, even though they feel constrained, as I do, to hide their feeling from their harder-headed relatives and friends.

But there was no need to conceal my interest from Marion as she pressed the hidden spring which threw open the bottom of her dead grandmother's old sandalwood box and disclosed the secret compartment beneath. Her fingers were trembling, her face aglow, and I realized that her excitement was far greater than mine.

I tried to call my common sense to my aid and to tell myself that the long envelopes crowded into the bottom of the box held only the financial worthless letters and keepsakes of an old woman long dead. But I could not banish the eerie impression which Marion's recital of her grandmother's injunction had just made upon me. It was the most fantastic idea possible, that Tom Morton, who had died practically a bankrupt, should have entrusted any "fortune" to his aged, almost senile mother, to be kept until the girl was 18, yet my imagination kept dallying with it as Marion lifted the envelopes from the bottom of the box and laid them in my lap.

"I want you to look at these, Auntie Madge," she said, with an attempt at being business-like which was prettily amusing. "Then we can check up on them when we open the box again, or you can, if anything should happen to me."

With the consciousness that my excitement was as childish as Marion's, I picked up the envelopes and scanned them carefully. They were three in number, strong, and sealed in several places with sprawling blobs of red wax. On each was written in the tremulous chirography of an old and ailing person:

"For Marion Morton when she shall have reached the age of 18 years. Not to be opened until then, or in the event of her decease, by her nearest heir."

I had a sudden vision of the heartbroken old woman who had scrawled those words for the grandchild she idolized. Tom Morton had caused his old mother much sorrow, and his death had left her penniless. Lillian had cared for her tenderly until her death, and I knew that the old woman's heart had held loving gratitude for her daughter-in-law. Yet with the perversity which is so often a concomitant of mother love, she had ignored her son's wife in this legacy and laid the eerie injunction upon a tiny girl, for Marion had been just past her babyhood when her grandmother died.

With a harassing sense that I, too, was being disloyal to Lillian, although I knew that my friend would sanction my course if I were free to tell her of it, I handed the envelopes back to Marion.

"I shall remember that there are three of them, and the inscription on each," I told her with the gravity which I knew she expected from me.

"Thank you. Now I feel safe about them," she said, laying the envelopes back in the secret compartment of the box, and closing the panels which formed the bottom of it.

"See!" she said, holding it out to me, "the two parts are so cunningly joined that you cannot tell where the line is."

"It is a marvelous piece of work," I agreed, "so perfect that I am sure you would run no risk of anyone's discovering the secret, if you left the box locked in your cedar chest in your own room as you have done before."

"Mr. Underwood hadn't some back, then," Lillian's young daughter returned obstinately. "It's been his business to ferret out secrets. I won't feel easy a minute unless it's in your care, where he will have no chance to even see it."

She put her grandmother's jeweled trinkets back in the top tray, locked the box and put the key in an envelope which she sealed. Then she brought out from her closet a strong pasteboard carton which she evidently had procured for this specific purpose, and into which she put the box and the envelope holding the key. When she had securely tied the carton and written "Marion Morton" on the outside of it, she gravely handed it to me.

"I'm trusting my 'fortune' to you, Auntie Madge," she said with an attempt at mockery. But though I smiled at her as though appreciating her jest, I knew that in optimistic girlish fashion she was cherishing romantic visions of what she would discover when her eighteenth birthday should warrant her opening the mysterious envelopes.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

By John Held, Jr.

Story by Lloyd Mayer

SO YOU'RE ALL TANGLED UP IN THE OLD PYTHAGOREAN THEOREM ?
OH' YEA'
I DON'T UNDERSTAND THAT SILLY HYPOTENUSE!
I'LL EXPLAIN!
OH' MARGY!
YOU SEE MARGY IS THE ALTITUDE, I'M THE BASE AND YOU ARE THE HYPOTENUSE'
HE MEANS, THE SUM OF YOUR SQUARE HEAD IS EQUAL TO OURS, BUT IT ISN'T AT ALL!

"My dear, I'm on the VERGE of collAPSE—I mean I've been having hysTERics, no less, because I WISH you could have SEEN the old situation that transpired this afterNOON because I mean I and ARab were sort of endeavoring to assist 'BULL' with his bad geOMetry trouble and, my dear, I was actually conVULSED because the great bimbo honestly hasn't the vaguest iDEA what it's all aBOUT because I mean f'r instance it's the PythaGORean THEorem or something that baffles him comPLETEly at this point and ARab, my dear, conceived the BRILliant idea of kind of ILlustrating it by prosTRAting himself HEAVily on the GROUND at my FEET and telling 'BULL' he was the hyPOTHesis or something, whereupon I eLABorated by explaining that Arab meant the SUM of 'Bull's' square HEAD was equal to ARab's and MINE, only it really WASn't because he was so DUMB and all, do you SEE? I mean I s'pose it was AWfully MEAN of me, sort of, but ACtually, my dear, he's SO darn STUpid, because I mean even I know what this PythaGOREan THEorem is all about because I mean it's the SIMplest thing in the WORLD, my dear, because you see it's just that the SQUARE of the hyPOTHesis is equal to the SUM of the SIDES of the other two SQUARES or something—I mean I've prob'ly got it mixed UP or something, but I think it's the SIMplest thing in the WORLD to underSTAND, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, November 21

A DAY of unusual liveliness and bold initiative is the forecast read from the strong positions of Mars, Mercury and Uranus in the chart of the lunar transits. It is a time for daring adventure and enterprise, attended by a change of environment, travel and large undertakings. This activity will react, in its benefits and happy and thriving conditions, on the domain of the heart and home, which may find welcome change and pleasant surprises.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of adventure, travel and change, which will find signal benefits in the business and personal life, if the incentive to initiative and daring enterprise be heeded. It is a time for lively and decisive action and bold strokes at good fortune.

A child born on this day may succeed through its ingenuity, enterprise and courageous resourcefulness in any venture undertaken. Its life may be prosperous and pleasant.

He that climbs the tall tree has won right to the fruit. He that leaps the wide gulf should prevail in his suit.—Scott.

Quickest Way to Sweeten Stomach

PERHAPS that sour condition of your stomach is due to an over-stimulation of gastric acid. A sour stomach isn't very pleasant, and isn't very easy to excuse when there is so simple a way to remedy it. To neutralize the harmful acid and put your stomach in good order take a little "Pape's Diapepsin"; after meals, or whenever the need is felt.

This fine remedy removes the cause of the trouble and promotes normal, healthy digestion. "Pape's Diapepsin" is sold by all druggists at 60 cents a package, and is the remedy which is recommended by millions because it gives immediate relief in all cases of difficult and painful digestion.

Be sure, therefore, to provide yourself with "Pape's Diapepsin" today, so that stomach pain and digestive troubles need never worry you again. Or sour stomach cause you discomfort. This form of relief has helped many who thought their disorders could not be helped.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Many is the family today that makes it a rule always to have a bottle of this perfect preparation in the house. Keep it handy and observe these three simple rules of health: keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open. We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you—see special offer in coupon:

CARNEGIE PREPS FOR N. Y. U. CLASH

VIOLETS IN LIGHT DRILL

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—They'll close the books on the 1928 football season in a week or two in the East, but in the meantime there is work to be done before the climax games of this coming Saturday and Thanksgiving day.

Carnegie Tech's Tartan conquerors of Notre Dame will start work today for their all-important battle with New York University at Pittsburgh Saturday. The Tartans, who have swept aside all opposition thus far, will be in a position to file a claim to national honors, provided the formidable Violet hurdle is cleared. Pending the result of that game, Advisory Coach Wally Steffen advised Carnegie students to postpone any celebration over the Plaid's smashing triumph over Notre Dame.

New York University, one of the section's greatest aggregations despite a setback by Georgetown, started its preparation yesterday with a light workout.

HARVARD DRILLS

While Yale's warriors, beaten by Princeton, were given a holiday, Arnold Horween sent his Harvard team through a short signal drill in the baseball cage. A thick fog over the stadium made outdoor practice impracticable. Both Yale and Harvard will have virtually every member of their varsity squads ready for their annual battle at Cambridge this week.

A dummy defensive scrimmage against Princeton plays occupied the Navy varsity, but the Tigers were enjoying the day off at Atlantic City. A blackboard drill and limbering up exercises comprised Army's preparations for the undefeated Nebraska eleven at West Point.

Boston College which, with Carnegie, shares eastern leadership as far as victories go, will devote most of its energies this week toward preparing for the objective game with Holy Cross, December 1, rather than this coming Saturday's fray with the Connecticut Aggies.

TEAMS REST

As a general rule, college elevens which will wait until Thanksgiving Day for their next and final game, took yesterday off. Pennsylvania will not start work for Cornell until Wednesday and at Ithaca, Gil Doble announced Cornell would engage in no hard work until the end of the week.

Columbia's Lions, given a limbering up workout, were told to forget the Penn disaster and concentrate on the game with Syracuse. Colgate's somewhat battered first string team was given two days off before getting down to work for the Brown game.

West Virginia and Washington and Jefferson will start work for their annual Turkey Day battle and so will Penn State and Pittsburgh.

BOXER'S FACE CUT

BLACKWELL, Okla., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Babe Hunt, of Ponca City, heavyweight champion of Oklahoma, was severely cut about the face, late yesterday following an altercation on the highway about 10 miles southeast of here. Jim Vickers, a farmer living eight miles southeast of Blackwell, was in jail at Tonkawa, held in connection with the attack on Hunt.

Elder is a track star, and was a member of the United States Olympic track and field team in the recent games at Amsterdam. Football is a secondary sport with him. He is a terror out in the open field.

STRIBLING BOUT WITH SETUP BANNED

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—An official ban was put on Young Stribling's match with Andy Mitchell, California heavyweight, by the New York State Athletic Commission today. The decision on the bout, scheduled for Friday night at Madison Square Garden, was reached on the grounds that Mitchell was not a suitable opponent.

Stribling, originally matched with Jack Dorval until the latter took sick, was told that he must wait until the Pennsylvanian recovers his health. Mitchell, the commission decided, could not qualify as a substitute. In place of the match, Harry Ebbetts and K. O. (Phil) Kaplan, New York middleweights, will battle 10 rounds in the main bout.

At the same time the commission barred Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight champion, from fighting heavyweights in this state as long as he holds the 175-pound title. Loughran had asked permission of the commission to enter Tex Rickard's current elimination tournament while still holding his light-heavyweight crown.

The commission also solved definitely the managerial controversies that have surrounded Knute Hansen, melancholy Dane from Wisconsin, for many months. Hansen will fight under the management of Billy Gibson, former pilot of Gene Tunney, until the claim Walter Friedman holds on the boxer's services is settled in court. Friedman will be paid $3,500 expenses from a fund of 20 per cent of the Dane's earnings, which will be taken from Knute's purses and held by the commission pending the court decision.

GRANGE CASE DISMISSED

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—A paternity charge against Harold (Red) range, former galloping ghost of the gridiron, was dismissed yesterday for want of prosecution by Judge John Sharboro in municipal court at the request of attorneys for Mrs. Helen Flozak, who charged Grange was the father of her seven-months-old daughter, Haroldine. Otto B. Steiskal, an assistant state's attorney, said a settlement of $900 had been made by Grange out of court. Mrs. Flozak, who is estranged from her husband, said she met Grange at a hotel where she was employed and on several occasions accompanied him to his home at Wheaton, Ill.

JACK ELDER

Reserve halfback of the Notre Dame eleven, who was injected into the game with Carnegie Tech at South Bend in the fourth quarter Saturday and immediately tore off a run of 53 yards to the 10-yard line. There is no telling how things might have gone for the Irish if he had been inserted into the lineup earlier. The explanation given for his absence is that he is strictly a runner, no good at interfering or on defense. But he can RUN!

TWO VICTORIES OVER IRISH DIVIDE FANS

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

IT WAS inevitable that Carnegie Tech's brilliant 27-7 victory over Notre Dame at South Bend last Saturday should stir up odious comparisons between this feat and that of two years ago, when the Plaid downed the Irish, 19-0, at Forbes Field.

The debate started on the train coming back from South Bend, and the opinions differed widely. Those who held to the notion that the 1926 victory was the more glorious could not be shaken from their stand, nor could the converts to the latest feat be induced to change their minds.

Among those who figured the 1926 game the brighter achievement was Henry Levy, a Tech end of a decade ago and a close friend of Judge Walter Steffen, the Tartan chief.

"This was a great battle today," he said, "and a fine victory for Tech, but I think it rates second to the 19-0 game for several specific reasons.

"That Tech team of 1926 was up against the myth that Notre Dame teams were invincible, while this year's team entered the fray with the knowledge that a Notre Dame team had bowed before to their

WIN WILL GIVE TECH CROWN

By JESS CARVER.

PITTSBURGH has welcomed back to its bosom its two roving football varsities, which conducted a pair highly successful invasions of the middle west over the past week-end; in one case, removing from the running a proud contender for the mythical national championship and in the other, bringing the same much desired honor a step nearer to this city.

There was no outward show of welcome for the Pitt and Tech elevens as they marched back to their campuses yesterday, but everywhere you go words of warm admiration are being voiced for the Tartans, who so decisively walloped ol' Knute Rockne and his Irish of Notre Dame, and for the Panthers, who held the beefy and vaunted Cornhuskers of Nebraska to a scoreless deadlock at Lincoln.

Today, or, for that matter, yesterday, the Tartans began their final week of drill for the last objective of the carefully mapped-out program destined to carry the Plaid to at least the Eastern, if not the national, football title. Chick Meehan will have his powerful New York University eleven at Forbes Field Saturday, and Chick will throw by far the most powerful eleven up against the Tartans they have met this year.

A victory over New York will mean the unqualified crowning of Tech as champion. It may also mean a trip to the Pacific Coast for the annual Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena. Should that come about, Pittsburgh will enjoy the honor of having had two of her own football teams invited west in successive years. Won't that look nice on your batiks?

They tell me that Tech gave the Irish a most severe going over. Ted Rosencweig again proved his ability to work the end-around play to near perfection—possibly as well as it has ever been worked by any wingman. Howard Harpster put the Indian sign on Rockne and the entire Notre Dame team. The Skibo line mowed down the Notre Dame forward wall about as it pleased during the important stages of the game, playing the game that Coach Bob Waddell has been praying it would play all year.

Such a team is bound to cause trouble for New York. By no stretch of the imagination can the Violets be called a smart eleven—all they have demonstrated in games past has been tremendous power, and when Lou Little figured out a way to check that power New York took one on the button.

Mountaineers Seek Utah as Foe in 1929

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—University of Utah announced receipt of an invitation to meet the University of West Virginia in a football game next season at Morgantown, W. Va. It is not expected the invitation will be accepted, since Utah has about concluded negotiations for a game with the University of Hawaii at Honolulu, and it is not believed two long trips in one season will be approved.

Brundage Elected A. A. U. President

NEW YORK Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Avery Brundage, Chicago contractor and former all around athletic champion, today was elected president of the National Amateur Athletic Union by unanimous vote of the 1928 convention. He succeeds Murray Hulburt, of New York, who put his own successor in nomination after serving four terms.

Other officers elected are: First vice president, Fred L. Hoffman, Cincinnati; second vice president, Herman Obertubessing, New York; third vice president, Harry Maloney, Palo Alto, Cal; fourth vice president, Joseph T. England, Baltimore; secretary and treasurer, Daniel J. Ferris, New York.

St. Louis was the unanimous choice for next year's meeting place. Invitations had also been received from Philadelphia, Chicago, San Francisco, Denver, Los Angeles and West Baden, Ind.

WESTMORELAND KEEPS O'HARA

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Rumors that ePter O'Hara would not be retained as pro at Westmoreland, current here for several weeks, were stilled today when the accomplished links player and instructor signed a 1929 contract. O'Hara is one of the most skillful pros in the Pittsburgh district. He established new records at Westmoreland and at St. Clair last summer within a period of one week.

A second announcement from Westmoreland today was to the effect that William Frank had been elected to succeed Chester H. Lehman as president of the club. Lehman now is president of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association. He served as president at Westmoreland for more than five years.

Frank has been very active in local golf circles and is an officer in the local chapter of the U. S. G. A. greens section.

Johnny DeMarco To Battle Cuddy

It will be a case of DeMarco vs. DeMarco in the main bout at McKeesport Thursday night.

Johnny Hayes, of Philadelphia, who was to meet Cuddy DeMarco, of McKeesport, in the battle, was reported sick to the boxing commission yesterday, and Johnny DeMarco, of Philadelphia, not related to Cuddy, was recommended as a capable substitute and has been signed.

Johnny DeMarco is a club fighter, which means that he keeps on slugging from bell to bell. He has boxed Roxie Allen, Al Winkler, Joey Hadfield, Bucky Doyle, Emory Cabana and other good ones.

Jackie Murray and Bob Collera have been matched for the semi-final. Ken Hargraves and Frankie Moran are paired for the second bout.

Del Gainer Gets Rochester Release

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—The outright release of Del Gainer, coach and pinch hitter and one of the oldest players in the International League, was announced today by Warren C. Giles, president of the Rochester club.

Gainer had played with several big league clubs and was with the Detroit Tigers in the 1909 World Series. His years of service caused his release with no strings attached. President Giles announced, since it was thought he could place himself to better advantage.

Breadon Still Evades Silent on Southworth Coast Honors Sheely

Dukes' Code Success Mandell Crown Safe Buc Icers Try Again

CARD MANAGERSHIP "OPEN QUESTION"

OBTAINING from President Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals either a confirmation or a denial of the report that Billy Southworth is to supplant Bill McKechnie, as manager, of the Redbirds next year appears to be one of the toughest jobs of the off-season in baseball.

Billy Southworth

St. Louis correspondents of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph report that Breadon declines to make any statement, one way or the other. He will not even admit that McKechnie has been definitely dismissed, declaring, on the contrary, that "the question as to his manager for 1929 is still an open one," but that he "hopes to settle the matter within the next few days."

HOWEVER, that is merely in line with the policy of evasion that Breadon has pursued since a probable change in the St. Louis management was first rumored early in October. Under ordinary circumstances, it might be inferred from such a statement as the above that there still was a chance of McKechnie's being reappointed, but in the light of recent developments Bill's friends hereabouts do not look for anything of the sort.

Immediately after the final game of the world series, when questioned as to the truth of the report that a shift in pilots was planned, Breadon said he had never given a thought to such a step. "McKechnie won the pennant for us, and nothing more could be asked of any manager," he added. He made the same remark a couple of weeks ago, following his conference with McKechnie in St. Louis, and said further that he had even discussed club matters for next season with Bill and would have another talk with him on December 11, intimating that if any differences existed they would be speedily ironed out and that the Wilkinsburg citizen would remain in charge of the team for 1929.

AS TO Southworth, Breadon even now declines to say whether or not he is considering the former Pirate outfielder for the job. He insists that he has not conferred with Southworth in any manner whatsoever—by letter, telegram, psychology or indirectly. All that he will admit is that he holds Southworth in high esteem, and he lauds Bill to the skies for his work in piloting Rochester to the International League pennant this year.

With all due respect to Southworth, it is one of the paradoxical things peculiar to the uniquely-operated St. Louis club that Breadon does not manifest the same high esteem nor sing similar praises for the other manager who also won a pennant for him in a league of much higher classification and in just as tough a fight.

NEW evidence that Early Sheely, the first baseman acquired by the Pittsburgh club by draft from Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League, still possesses the same remarkable class as a first sacker that he displayed in the big show during his seven years with the White Sox, comes to Pittsburgh fans in the make-up of an All-Coast League team. For the first time in its history, the Coast League has placed on its books an

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Earl Averill, crack outfielder of the San Francisco Seals,, was sold yesterday to the Cleveland Americans for an unannounced price, but believed to be around $50,000, and two players. Billy Evans, Indian pilot, and Charley Graham, Seals' vice president, completed deal.

BLOOM TO SUB FOR GRAHAM IN BOUT

A CHANGE has been made in the main bout of the boxing show to be held next Monday night at Motor Square Garden whereby Bushy Graham, of Utica, N. Y., will give way to Lou Bloom, Jewish lad of Columbus, as the opponent of Johnny Datto, the Filipino, of Cleveland. Graham will not be permitted by the State Athletic Commission to box here at this time, as he is under contract to box in Mahanoy City, Pa., two nights later.

Bloom has a good record. He has boxed Eddie and Mike O'Dowd, Babe Ruth, Al Dundee, Happy Atherton, Milton Cohen, Phil Zwick and others of note.

The best looking preliminary card of the season has been booked by Matchmaker Jules Beck to back up the Datto-Bloom bout. Jack Barry, clever local welterweight, will meet Tony LaRose, of Cincinnati, in the six-round semi-final and Terry Lingo, of the North Side, will oppose either Young Rudy, of Charleroi, or Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, in the other six-rounder. Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welter, of Elizabeth, boxes Tom Malloy, of Lawrenceville, and Jess Hoak, of McKeesport, meets Dave McConnell, of the North Side, in the four-rounders.

LARSEN VS. MAYBERRY

Sailor Larsen, of Chicago, has been signed as Howard Mayberry's opponent in one of the two 10-round bouts at Johnstown Thursday night. Battling Gizzo, of Donora, and Jack McFarland, of Wilkinsburg, are paired in the other. Tom Brown, of Lawrenceville, and Tommy Ward, of the North Side, will furnish one of the six-round preliminaries.

Cuddy DeMarco is training in Flynn's gymnasium, Sixth street, for his 10-round windup with Johnny DeMarko at McKeesport, Thursday night. Sandy Seifert, Dominick Profio, Johnny Michaels, Buck McTiernan, Jimmy Belmont and Davy McConnell are among the others working out daily in the new gym.

Seven local amateur boxers will compete in bouts at the Penn A. C., Philadelphia, Friday night.

CEDER AT CUMBERLAND

Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, and Joe Smallwood, of Smallwood, who is said to have knocked out 27 opponents in 30 bouts, box over the 10-round route at Cumberland, Tuesday night of next week.

Frank Monroe, local middleweight, and Chuck Schaach, of Wilson, have been matched for the semi-final to the Johnny Mellowskin, Pa., next Monday night. Bob Smoller, of Beechview, will tangle with Red Ryan, of Washington, in the second bout and the opener will bring together Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, and Tommy Heilman, of Donora.

In addition to his battle with Johnny DeMarco at McKeesport, Thursday night, Cuddy DeMarco is matched with Johnny O'Keefe, of Columbus, at Columbus, O., next Monday night and with Benny Burns, of Akron, at Akron three nights later. He recently defeated Burns in a bout at McKeesport.

George Courtney, erswhile middleweight challenger, enters the light-heavyweight ranks to fight Charley Belanger, Canadian champion, at Cleveland tonight. Paul Pirrone and Joey Goodman appear in preliminaries, the former against Sammy White and the latter against Billy Herold.

all-star team selected by the various writers of the loop at the suggestion of President Harry A. Williams, and Sheely is given a place in the lineup as the best first baseman in the circuit.

THE other players picked on the teams are Ruether, pitcher; Bassler, catcher; Kerr, second base; McLaughlin, third base; Lary and Lee, tied for shortstop; Johnson, left field; Averill, center field; Jolley, right field, and Thurston, utility.

It is the decision of the scribes that these men possess outstanding ability and are the best men in the league at their respective positions. In the reckoning, the critics took into account batting power, defensive ability, run-getting qualities and everything else that goes to make for a winning ball player.

IN SHOWING their high opinion of Sheely's ability, the coast critics did not stop at picking him on the team by a bare majority of votes. They did it unanimously. Twenty-one votes in all were cast in the selection of the all-star club, and as the first base choice the new Pirate received every one of them, not a ballot being cast for any other first sacker in the league.

Only two other players were picked unanimously, they being Jolley, of San Francisco, for right field, and McLaughlin, of Sacramento, for third base. Johnson, bought by Detroit, received 15 votes for left field, Averill drew 13 for center, and Kerr got 16 for second base. Only 20 ballots were cast for shortstop, Lary and Lee getting nine each and Slade two.

WHILE credit is being passed around for the development of the Pitt football team from a lot of green material in October into one of the strongest November elevens in the country, a goodly slice of it must in all fairness be given to Charley Bowser. Prior to his graduation in 1923, Bowser was for three years one of the most valuable players on the Panther squad, developing into one of the best centers that Pitt has ever had, and in his present role as a coach he continues to be a power for the good in the football fortunes of the Blue and Gold. Charley has been of great assistance to Dr. Sutherland in improving the line and in successfully converting Ray Montgomery from a guard into a center, and in general has again this fall played no small part in making [illegible] a most creditable one.

COACH ELMER LAYDEN and Graduate Manager John D. Holahan, of Duquesne University, are much pleased at the success that marked the first tryout of a special signal system to inform the spectators of the nature of each offense for which a penalty was imposed. The idea was put into practice at last Saturday's Duquesne-Thiel game at the Stadium, and worked out in a manner that was generally satisfactory, according to the Duke officials.

"It is bound to be part of football everywhere eventually," said Coach Layden. "Improvements in the signs and system will suggest themselves as time goes on, and ultimately, I believe, there will be a standard code for giving this information to patrons of college games."

MANAGER HOLOHAN says the idea proved so popular, and the system introduced by the Dukes worked out so successfully, that Duquesne will continue to use the signalling code on penalties for the information of its patrons.

"We are going to employ it again in this week's game with Bethany and also in our Thanksgiving Day game with Waynesburg," he said, "and by next season we hope to have a smoothly-working system in effect." Incidentally, Manager Holohan announces that the Thanksgiving Day game with Waynesburg on the Bluff will be played at 10:30 in the morning, so as not to conflict with the Pitt-Penn State contest at the Stadium in the afternoon.

JOE GLICK'S victory over Baby Joe Gans in New York—termed by most of the ringside critics a poor decision in a poor fight—is expected to get Glick a match with Sammy Mandell for the world lightweight championship, but judging from accounts of the Glick-Gans affair, Sammy probably will laugh himself to sleep the night before he faces his newest challenger. For neither Glick nor Gans showed the slightest thing that could, by any stretch of the imagination, be said to qualify him for a titular meeting with Mandell. Neither appeared to be even close to the champion's class. Gans is said to have been the greater disappointment of the two because of the heavy ballyhoo that had been sounded for him. He missed absurdly often with right counters and it took him five rounds to perfect a defense for Glick's body punches when the principals were in half clinches. Glick, though he was given the decision, looked anything but formidable. He blew up after four rounds, because badly rattled and was being thoroughly punished at the finish.

AFTER losing its first two games to Boston and Detroit, the Pittsburgh hockey team tonight will make a third attempt to break into the "Won" column in a meeting with Herbie Gardiner's Black Hawks at Chicago. The Hawks also dropped their first two contests, and as they did not look nearly as good as Pittsburgh in defeat the Pirates are generally picked to hang up their first victory tonight.

Despite their failure to win on either occasion, the Bucs showed form in their first and second engagements that indicates they soon will swing into a winning stride. At any rate there appears to be no danger that local fans will have to go through such a nightmare as they experienced at the start of last season, when Odie Cleghorn's skaters lost their first four games [illegible] and then lost six more in a row before they [illegible] varsity and what had happened once could happen again.

WHEN HARPY WAS YOUNG

"That Tech team did not have a crashing fullback to compare with Karcis to bang the Irish line, and Harpster, the field general, was only a sophomore then and lacked the experience he has today. And that 1926 eleven was a decided underdog eleven, a 1-to-10 shot, while this year's Tech team was rated at least an even money choice.

"To my way of thinking, that 19-0 game was a perfect contest. The upstart Skibos did not make a mistake. Everything broke just right for them. They were superb. I'll never forget how they ran roughshod over Rockne's men, going at their best after the Notre Dame regulars had replaced the second team starting lineup.

"I do not want to take away any of the glory or credit that is due this year's fine team for its decisive 27-7 victory, but give me the battle of two years ago as my choice of the two. This year's team shapes us as stronger than the former one, on its season's record, but I'll take the 1926 Notre Dame performance for mine over the similar, brilliant effort of this season."

HERE'S THE REBUTTAL

This is only one side of the story. There are many who contend that this year's team has done the better job of taking Notre Dame over the hurdles. For one thing, they point out it had to fly in the face of a tradition that Notre Dame couldn't be beaten on its home field, as attested by a 22-year clean slate there. And it also was up against a Notre Dame team and coach that were spoiling for revenge for what had happened at Forbes Field, and it won by a more decisive score than the Tech eleven of two years ago, stunning the followers of the Irish by the manner in which it went right out and scored two touchdowns in less than five minutes and never lost command of the situation.

I'd like to hear from any readers who have pronounced views regarding the respective merits of the showings of the two Tech teams of 1926 and 1923 in their big moments against Notre Dame.

WALLY CONCEDES VICTORY

The boys on the sidelines at the Tech-Notre Dame game tell a good one on Wally Steffen and Bob Waddell, the Tech coaches. Neither one smiled at any time during the game until after the fourth touchdown had been lugged over in the final quarter. Then, with about five minutes left to play and the score 27 to 7 in Tech's favor, Steffen turned to Waddell and stuck out his hand and Bob shook it.

"Bob," Wally is said to have ventured, "I think we're in."

REGARDING SCHOELL

Eddie Mead, of Cleveland, manager of Frankie Schoell, the veteran middleweight boxer, sends a screed extolling the praises of his meal ticket in glowing language. Among other things, he writes:

"Since I have had Schoell, he has had three fights, on each occasion defeating Wolcott Langford."

Also:

"Schoell is ready to face the scratch against any man in the world up to 140 pounds, white, black, yellow, brown or southpaw."

As the congressman said to the newspapermen:

"Boy, keep my name in the paper. No matter what you say about me, keep me before the public."

FIREMEN TO FIND MONESSEN CLUB TOUGH FOE

By TOM BIRKS.

MONESSEN OLYMPICS' wonderful showing against the Charleroi Scholastics in the Monongahela Valley championship at Roscoe Sunday, when the Olympics won by a 30-to-0 score, would indicate that the East Pittsburgh Firemen are going to have a tough battle on their hands Sunday at the Quarry grounds, and Jack Mier, manager of the Monessen team, stated that 2,000 followers will be with the club betting that the East Pittsburgh outfit will taste its first defeat of the season.

If the Valley fans feel that the Firemen are going to score at will over the up-river club they are doomed to disappointment. Monessen has been down in West Virginia and made a great reputation against the professional clubs.

Then the victory over Charleroi Sunday was outstanding. The Scholastics traveled to New Kensington and held the powerful Burns club to a 0-0 tie game, and this is their first setback of the season. And when Meir's club totalled five touchdowns, fans figured that Monessen must be strong.

The club carries a great following, and, with its cheer leaders, gives the impression of a college club. Monessen went down to Star City, W. Va., and beat Star City by a 6-to-0 score, and Simmonds, the former West Virginia University player, is coaching the club. Leechburg was bumped, 33 to 6, and Glassport C. M. C., 9 to 0. McKeesport Olympics being the only club to stop them. Numerous stars are on the team, including Constine at fullback, who was captain of the Monessen High team last year; Ricci, one of the sweetest ends ever to play at Rainbow Gardens, and Paul and Mortak in the halfback line. Manager Connelly knows that his team is going to be pushed hard, and maybe there will be another surprise when Sunday evening rolls around.

Another big game was scheduled last evening when the McKeesport Olympics contracted to meet the Burns club at New Kensington next Sunday. This will be the first meeting of these two famous clubs for many years, and fans are in for a treat. The game will be staged at Community field, New Kensington, with the kickoff scheduled for 2:30.

Fandom following the fortunes of the independent gridiron are eagerly awaiting the duel scheduled at Romaine field, Port Vue, next Sunday, when the Quakers meet McChesneytown and Kalitz stages his return battle with Bill Johnson. These men are classed as the leading contenders for the fullback position on the mythical all-star team, and in the last session, with the game finishing in a 0-0 score, honors between these two outstanding line plunging fullbacks were about even.

CASEY LIKELY '29 COACH AT HARVARD

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—The Boston Post says today that it has become a generally accepted fact at Harvard that Arnold Horween, of Chicago, head coach of football, will direct the team for the last time at Yale next Saturday.

Although no official action has been taken, the Post says it is expected that Eddie Casey, all-American halfback in 1919 and for the last three years head coach of as many remarkable Harvard freshmen teams, will succeed his chief.

Harvard freshmen under Casey have met but one reverse since he took charge in 1926 and their victories have included three straight wins over Yale.

Horween captained the Harvard varsity in 1920.

HARVARD CHIEF SPEAKS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Published reports that Arnold Horween, Harvard football coach, would be succeeded next year by Eddie Casey, present freshman coach, today brought forth a statement from William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard. He said:

"I am responsible for Horween's coming to Harvard and my confidence in him is now greater than when I asked him to coach in March, 1926.

"If any changes in the Harvard coaching staff are made they will be announced through the Harvard Athletic Association.

"Neither Mr. Horween or myself will have anything more to say on the matter."

ENDURANCE Counts Most of all

TODAY, the true worth of a motor oil is evidenced by its ENDURANCE. If it lasts....it lubricates.

Heat and friction, the two destructive factors that break-down and burn up most oils are the same factors that cause automobile motors to break-down and wear out.

Heat, friction and compression have increased....cars are being driven faster ...motors have outgrown the old-fashioned oil. Now, there is an absolute need for the "long-wearing" lubrication of Waverly All-Pennsylvania. Try a crank-case full yourself....today. You'll get "more miles per quart" and that means more miles per car.

MULLEN REINSTATED

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Jim Mullen, Chicago boxing promoter, straightened out his financial difficulties with the Illinois State Athletic Commission yesterday and bounded back with a 10-round match between Billy Light, St. Paul welter, and Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., Negro mauler, at Coliseum Friday.

VANDY LOSES SCHWARTZ

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 20.—(AP.)—Bill Schwartz, Vanderbilt fullback, will not appear in uniform again this year, because of injuries suffered in Saturday's game with the University of Tennessee. Schwartz' vertebrae were fractured and he collapsed on the field. Coach McGugin is forced to revamp backfield.

BUCS HAWK FOE; LES CANADIENS HERE THURSDAY

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—The Pittsburgh Hockey Pirates are here today for their National League game with the Black Hawks tonight. Although they have dropped their first two battles, neither Manager Odie Cleghorn nor his skaters appear downcast. They are confident that they have power enough to win a money berth, and expect to hit a winning stride tonight.

The 3-1 setback which they absorbed in Detroit Sunday was due largely to the spectacular and highly efficient goal tending of Dollie Dolson, new Cougar goalie, according to the Bucs. The Pittsburghers contend that had Dollie played only an average game they would have hung up at least three or four goals.

The Hawks are prepared to show plenty of respect for the Pirates' reserve front line tonight. In the Detroit battle Mickey MacKay and Tex White engineered the only Buc counter, and the locals realize that the Pittsburgh spare line ranks with the best relief trios in the circuit.

MacKay, who until about a week ago was a member of the local squad, is recovering from an abscess under his arm, and his playing form constantly is improving. Local fans who are familiar with the exceptional skating and stickhandling ability expect Mickey to break into the Pirate starting line within a short time.

Immediately after tonight's game the Pirates will return to Pittsburgh to make ready for their second home game of the season, with the colorful Les Canadiens of Montreal at Duquesne Garden Thursday. The Bucs feel that they gave a capacity crowd its money's worth at their opener with Boston, and they expect to play to another capacity house when they mix with the much more flashy Flying Frenchmen in their second home battle.

Manager Cleghorn today said that he and Benny Leonard, new Pirate owner, were endeavoring to add another player to the Pirate squad, but that as yet their efforts had not met with success. A recent league ruling permits each club to have 13 men in uniform, and the Pirates now have only 12 on their roster.

Billy Eichenmiller of Crookston Recreation lost his first game in the Pittsburgh Three-Cushion Billiard League season last night. He was beaten by Matthew McClure, also of Crookston's, on the Crookston table before more than 200 fans, the largest crowd of the season so far. The score was 40 to 40, with Eichenmiller falling five short of the 45 that he requires by the league handicap system.

Shuffle Callahan Not "Punch Drunk"

CHICAGO, Nov. 20—(AP.)—"Punch drunk" boxers hereafter will be barred from Illinois rings.

All those suspected of suffering from the ailment will be called before the Illinois State Athletic Commission and if found to be 'punch drunk" will have their licenses suspended.

Shuffle Callahan, Chicago's hard-hitting middleweight, who will take four punches to land one, was the first to be examined. He passed the test.

TECH PREPS

primed for All-America honor last year until he broke his leg in the Colgate game. This year he has been putting up a good enough brand of football, but Grant has come along, and there are those who will tell you that the latter is easily the equal of "Big Lass."

We will see what we shall see Saturday.

The Dukes, who maintained Pittsburgh's honor at home last week while Pitt and Tech were out of town, by beating back Tommy Holleran's Thiel Lutherans, have another conference fussle booked for their Bluff gridiron this week. Bethany, punched almost silly by Salem, Westminster and Marshall College in its last three games, comes here needing a victory and needing it badly. The Bisons will outweigh Duquesne like Nebraska outweighed Pitt. But unless they played a greatly improved brand of football, Duquesne should win in a walk.

Duquesne, by the way, is right up there when you come to list the best elevens in the section. They have lost one less game than Pitt, hold a victory over Washington-Jeff, scored before the Prexys became so badly battered, and, should Westminster happen to beat Geneva at New Castle Saturday, will be tied with the Covenanters for the conference lead.

Pitt will rest until Wednesday and then hold light workouts for the remainder of the week in preparation for the game with Penn State, Thanksgiving. The Panthers came out of the Nebraska game in fine physical condition, not one serious injury being recorded. It is hard to hurt these smart football players.

Dempsey Referees In Old Home Town

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 20—(AP.)—Re-entering the ring where he fought in preliminaries years ago, Jack Dempsey refereed the main event of a fight card here last night. He called the engagement between Adrian Elton, of Salt Lake and Dave Popp, of Denver, a draw.

The Manassa mauler, who stopped off here to visit his parents before returning with his wife to the coast, was given a tremendous ovation. He told newspapermen that, while he was keeping in good shape, he would not fight again.

EVANS, HARRIS LIKELY TO HELP INDIANS, TIGERS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

BILLY EVANS, a boy and man who has enhanced professional baseball through his exemplary behavior in the sport during the past 25 years, is making an admirable effort to give Cleveland a winning club.

At the present time, Evans, now active head of the Indians, is in San Francisco with the idea of purchasing Smead Jolley and Earl Averill, two hard-hitting outfielders who starred this year for the championship Seals. Averill was purchased yesterday.

Jolley led the Coast League in batting with a mark above .400 and he was out in front with home runs. Averill also finished among the leaders.

Both Jolley and Averill are southpaw batters, the former being a real slugger. Their acquisition by the Indians doubtless would contribute much to the punch of the Ohio entry largely on account of the short righfield fence in Cleveland.

EVANS IS HUSTLER

Before leaving for the distant coast, Evans completed a deal with Baltimore whereby Dick Porter, hard-hitting outfielder, becomes the property of the Indians.

Always a hustler and a fair dealer, Evans should get "somewhere" in his present work. He seems to have a free rein at Cleveland, and the new owners apparently are willing to put out a lot of money with the idea of giving the city a better team.

Another American League city where baseball is looking up is Detroit, now that Bucky Harris has been placed in charge. There's a little gent who knows his stuff. The Tigers were anything but magnificent during the reigns of Cobb and Moriarty, but don't bet that Little Bucky will not be among the elite within two years.

Harris is likely to have better cooperation from the front office in Detroit. In the first place, the Michigan city is one of the finest baseball towns in the land. Moreover, Owner Navin may let his new pilot carry out his own ideas.

It has been hinted that Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, insists on having a lot to do with the running of his ball teams, since he assumed the presidency, despite the fact that, as a manager, he was hardly in the same class with Harris.

Should You Enter Another Industry? One Experience

By B. C. FORBES

A BRILLIANTLY successful business man, worth many millions of dollars, was approached by a younger business man whose enterprise was not doing very well, for advice as to what he should do. The younger man had inherited rather a large concern in an industry which was going backwards, not forwards. Therefore, although he was unusually able and extremely ambitious, he was finding it impossible to make satisfactory progress against the tide.

Should he stay in the business under such discouraging circumstances, or should he sell out and enter another more promising field? Many men throughout America are confronted by like conditions. What should they do?

THE older business giant raised four questions which he asked the younger man to put to himself and answer, namely:

First—Is the industry you are in growing?

Second—Are you strategically situated so that you could attain domination of the industry?

Third—How much would it cost you to dominate the industry?

Fourth—If you should attain domination of the industry, would the profits be commensurate with the risks?

THE answer to each of the four questions in this instance was unfavorable. As a matter of fact, this particular industry had decreased for the whole country 5o per cent in less than 20 years. And was still on the down-grade.

THAT very day the younger man made up his mind to sell out. Quietly but energetically he sought out bidders for his different plants and, after a time, got rid of them all at what he regarded as a reasonable price.

Meanwhile he had made up his mind which industry he would enter. Among the companies of which he was a director was one which impressed him as possessing great possibilities. As he turned his assets into cash, he invested more and more heavily in the stock of this company. Also, he became one of its executives.

The greater information and knowledge he thus acquired confirmed him in his judgment that here was a company and an industry which offered unlimited opportunities. Before long, with the backing of several friends, he acquired enough stock to give him control. He then became president.

That was only two or three years ago, but already he has brought the enterprise very prominently to the front, has acquired many new plants, greatly expanded sales, cut down manufacturing and distributing costs, increased the profits, made the stock much more valuable and has already attained second place in the entire industry.

THE lesson one gathers from this is that it is unwise, at least for younger men, to stay in an industry which is on the decline and doomed to continue to decline. The thing to do is to switch to a more attractive channel, one in which the economic tide and trend are favorable.

THE government's latest figures, revealing how business enterprises fared last year, show that a tragic number failed to make any profits whatsoever, suggesting that a lot of individuals and concerns are trying to swim against the tide.

Of a total of 452,852 companies filing corporation income tax returns last year, no fewer than 203,006 reported a deficit, a new high record.

This means that there were 45 losing business concerns in every hundred.

A STUDY of the returns reveals that losses are more numerous among small concerns than among large enterprises, a fact which adds point to the rich man's counsel as to the importance of becoming a dominating force in one's line of business. In other words, the battle is to the strong.

Try no to get into the swim.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(By the raw sugar market took a firm early today and although no sales were reported to local refiners, they continued to show interest at the old level of 3.92c for Cuba, duty paid, with holders asking 1-16c more. Europe was showing more interest in Cuban sugar with sales reported of about 10,000 bags to the United Kingdom for prompt to 4 months' shipment at a price equal to 1.93 cents f.o.b. Cuba.

The firmness in the spot market and the increased demand from European buyers for Cuban sugar had a stimulating effect in raw sugar futures and caused increased covering and some new outside buying. The market opened 1 point higher to 1 point lower, but quickly firmed up and at midday was 2 to 3 points net higher.

The refined market was unchanged at 5.20@5.25c for fine granulated with good withdrawals and some new buying reported.

Safety

To investors for whom the risk of purchases of junior securities in the present market is either undesired or unjustified, we recommend the more conservative course of placing funds in the senior stock of a strong and growing Public Utility, paying cumulative dividends to yield 7.10% and having a participating feature.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, is one of the cities greatly affected by the recent wavelength changes, it developed from the correspondence being received by the Sun-Telegraph. Several hundred listeners in this territory have complained about the new wave length assignment for WCAE.

Writing in behalf of the citizens of Johnetta, Pa., Harry W. Smith, secretary of council would like to have WCAE back on its old wave length. The station has been heard few times since November 11.

Mrs. B. L. Young, of 312 Trenton avenue, Wilkinsburg, reported that she is getting all stations without trouble, but feels that "the old wave length was far the best one. Please go back to the old one."

A very emphatic request for a change in the WCAE wave is made by James D. Laughlin, of 526 Franklin avenue, Edlwood City. He writes, "Give us WCAE on the old wave length. Then when it is changed don't make another shakeup for the next 100 years. Don't think my radio is an antique. I bought it two weeks ago."

Some odd expressions are being used by fans in telling how they get stations since the readjustment. Among them are "the sound of frying fish," "aeroplane noises," "machine gun pops," "firecrackers."

One reader wrote that he had tried every length of aerial known and still has his first time to hear WCAE and KGV since the wave change. C. A. Tait of Ellwood City is located on the top of a hill far from any interference, where reception up to November 11 had been very good all over the country. He has trouble getting any stations but KDKA, WLW and WTAM.

The new scheme does not please the suburban listener, Harry C. Mathews, of Greensburg, declared. He enclosed clipping of newspapers in his district which have taken up the battle for radio fans. These newspapers have asked their readers to communicate with the Sun-Telegraph radio department.

J. F. Tripician, 31 Avery street, North Side:

"With a week having elapsed since the new wave lengths were made effective, I am convinced that a large majority of listeners in the tri-state district will be unable to satisfactorily tune in WCAE as long as it continues on the 245.8 meter wave length."

"Sounds like a midnight back fence quartet," is the opinion of P. W. Hetzel, a druggist at Rochester, Pa. He has been unable to get either WCAE or WJAS."

WCAE is a station of the past in East Liverpool, according to Mrs. H. H. Nellis, of 1617 St. Clair avenue.

"My set is the best in the community," wrote a listener in Jeannette. "When neighbors can't hear anything on their radios they come to my house. But now it is hard for me to get anything but KDKA and WLW. We never hear WCAE any more, but occasionally we get WJAS."

J. C. Lohman, Bedford, Pa.:

"Listeners here are thankful that the Sun-Telegraph is giving radio fans an opportunity to express themselves on radio conditions. In this way the Sun-Telegraph is making radio better for everyone. The switching of WCAE and WSM is the bunk. Put WCAE back on its old wave length."

Mary Gorman, of Scottdale, would "like very much to know what has happened to WCAE and WJAS lately."

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Christine Miller Clemson, internationally famous contralto, will sing over KDKA tonight in the Sacred Song concert. She will be heard in several numbers, among them "Battle Hymn of the Republic," a favorite.

Tom Morris, baritone, will return to the air tonight with a program of Hebrew, Italian and old English numbers from WJAS at 8:15 o'clock. He will sing "Rachem," by Manna-Zucca; "O Sol Mio" and "Rimpianto," Italian selections.

Features of other programs are listed in detail as follows:

Local Programs

EASTERN STANDARD TIME.

305.9m—KDKA—980k

SOUTH PENN OIL INCOME IS BOOSTED

BY GEORGE B. SNYDER.

A TOTAL of $440,000 will be added to the earnings of the South Penn Oil Company this year as a result of the improved operations of the organization's Mexican subsidiary. This will be equivalent to 55 cents a share on the 800,000 shares of South Penn stock in addition to the earnings from local operations which have been substantially better this year than last.

Penn Mex Fuel Company yesterday declared a dividend of 75 cents a share on its stock, 55 per cent of which is owned by South Penn. This was the second declaration by Penn Mex this year. A previous payment of $1.25 was made on May 21. The Penn Mex dividends provided funds for the payment of South Penn's two extras of 25 cents a share declared this year in addition to the regular dividends of $2 annually.

Penn Mex production in the Alamo district in Mexico has settled to about 6,000 barrels daily. This is far below the flush output of over 20,000 barrels shown before the appearance of sediment, but it enables the Mexican operations to show an attractive profit.

THE brisk pace of steel mill operations made it possible for a new high record in by-product coke production to be established in October. The output of by-product coke was 4,219,262 tons, compared with 3,958,682 tons in September. There were 82 active plants which worked at 86 per cent of their capacity.

The extent to which industry is adopting the economical by-product ovens may be seen the fact that only 421,000 tons of bee-hive coke were made last month.

A comparison of production in the first 10 months of this year with the same period of 1924 shows that by-product coke production increased from 27,792,000 tons to 39,755,486 tons while bee-hive coke production declined from 8,658,000 tons to 3,562,000 tons.

The fact that the by-product coke required less coal per ton than the bee-hive coke is typical of what is happening to the coal industry. Even more pronounced coal savings have been made in other industries.

T. P. GAYLORD president of the Chamber of Commerce, in addressing the International Conference on Bituminous Coal yesterday perfectly described a fundamental difficulty of the industry when he said, "Through the efforts and energies of just such men as you, who are here assembled, in this conference, the coal industry has suffered. You have made one pound of coal produce as much useful power as four to six pounds a few years ago. This is one of the important reasons why the growth and development of the coal industry has not been proportionate to the growth of industry in general. We have coal in abundance and we need to find uses for it.

"Through the continued advance made in the use of labor-saving devices, we find ourselves, notwithstanding the great increase in our manufactured product, with a surplus of labor. It is, therefore, highly important to our economic well-being that we develop new operations for those now left without profitable employment. Coal products seem to offer possibilities for such enterprises and it is to you gentlemen that we look for assistance."

F. ZUR NEDDEN may have pointed the way out for our coal industry, and may have given Mr. Gaylord his answer, when he told how Germany has cured its coal industry. He showed that a decreasing proportion of that country's coal is being sold in a raw form while more and more of it is placed through a refining process before it reaches consumers hands.

Fifteen years ago 52 per cent of all German coal was sold raw while at present only 40 per cent is sold in its original state. The balance has been sold as briquettes, powdered fuel, coke, gas, electric power or oil. The total coal mined increased only 4 per cent during the period, but in 1913 only 10 per cent was machine mined while in 1927 nearly 80 per cent was mechanically produced.

Public Should Attend Open Sessions on Coal

The second international bituminous coal conference, which is being held in the Carnegie Music Hall under the auspices of Carnegie Institute of Technology, is a big thing for Pittsburgh. Its importance in world interest is attested by the representation of France, Germany, England, Austria, Italy, Russia, Belgium and other countries, as well as the United States, in the sessions. Scientific and technical men—learned men—are alternately tutor and pupil, for this conference, when all is told, is a school in which those attending both teach and learn.

As a school, it represents the highest department of the curriculum of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, the president of which, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, originated this conference, the first sessions of which were held here last year. Possibly no place else in the world could such an assemblage meet under such happy circumstances. A great center of coal production and a great center of technical research and education presents a combination that is unique.

Opportunity is offered to Pittsburgh to take advantage of this inspiring gathering in a public way. Two evening sessions, open to all who wish to attend, have been arranged. The first of these will be held this evening. John Hays Hammond, consulting engineer of Washington; Dr. Edwin E. Slosson, director of Science Service, Inc., and E. W. Smith, of London, are to be speakers. Friday night there will be another public session, at which George Claude, of France, inventor and investigator of electricity in combination with gases, will speak.

The men who attend this conference honor us by coming here to exchange ideas for the benefit of the world. Pittsburgh should be courteous enough to signify, by attendance at the open meetings, that it appreciates the coming of such a distinguished circle for the purpose of expanding the world's knowledge of one of our leading commodities—coal.

Important Experiment Made at Bettis Field

Bettis Field is the scene of interesting experiments that mark an important step in aerial navigation. A lamp illuminating the ground has been automatically lighted by sound waves from a siren on an airplane in flight. The significance of this is evident. An airplane approaching the beacon of a landing field at night is given the power automatically to illuminate the field so a safe landing may be made.

This development is the result of research and experimentation at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, which has extended more than a year, by Thomas Spooner, research engineer. It involves the picking up of sounds of a siren on an airplane by a ground receiver, which transmits them to the switch controlling the lamp.

This, an example of the application of the dynamic quality of sound waves, appears likely to play an important part in aviation in the future. It shows the readiness of science to cope with problems the solution of which is of practical interest. It shows that one of our leading industries is in tune with the rhythm of public sentiment with regard to putting Pittsburgh on the map as a center of aerial transportation and of the industry associated with aviation.

Wider Streets Among More Important Needs

Among public works under consideration by Council are three street improvements of much importance. Request has been made for the drawing of an ordinance to widen Grant street between First avenue and Water street, thus completing the work that has changed the greater part of Grant street from a narrow thoroughfare to one of the best in town.

Widening of Water street between Penn avenue and Smithfield street also is contemplated. And Council has given affirmation to an ordinance providing for the widening of Emily street, between Craft avenue and Halket street, as a further extension of the Boulevard of the Allies beyond the point reached by the great improvements just completed. Those who have traversed this route to Schenley Park have commented on the desirability of widening Emily street.

It is by such means that Pittsburgh is evolving from a city of narrow streets inherited from forefathers who lacked the vision to foresee the greatness of the town. It is a costly procedure, but a necessary one. Yet those who contemplate the improvement the city has made in that way, in a few years will say that it is worth all that it has cost—and more.

Russia on Hoover

They Credit Him With Common Sense.

Some foolish people in America said that Herbert Hoover was inordinately fond of the British.

Others just as foolish in Russia declare that they call Hoover "a victim of Anglo-phobia." The only morning paper in Moscow says: "The election of Mr. Hoover, an Anglophobe, is an expression of the growing antagonism between Great Britain and America, dangerously sharpened by the impression created in America by the Anglo-French naval agreement."

The Russian editor says: "Hoover leads the young American red-cheeked imperialism against Britain," and hopes that Hoover will re-establish complete commercial relations between Russia and the United States. Perhaps he will.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE you too indulgent?

Do you strengthen your associates or do you help to break down their resistance by helping them to do what they happen to wish to do?

If you love a person you want to give—money, service, what not.

Do you ever consider whether your kind of giving is really kind?

Nothing is too much to do for your friends.

And they impose on you.

But you have taught them to depend upon your generosity.

Why should you criticize them for their leaning toward your help?

[illegible] been a prop and you want to be a prop.

[illegible] you want those nearest to you to be able to stand alone?

[illegible] the birdling try its wings if carried and dropped into the [illegible] the tall trees?

[illegible] to be kind to your friends let them realize their own re- [illegible] of the time at least.

[illegible] is the one who makes the child feel its own feet, its [illegible] ary to success.

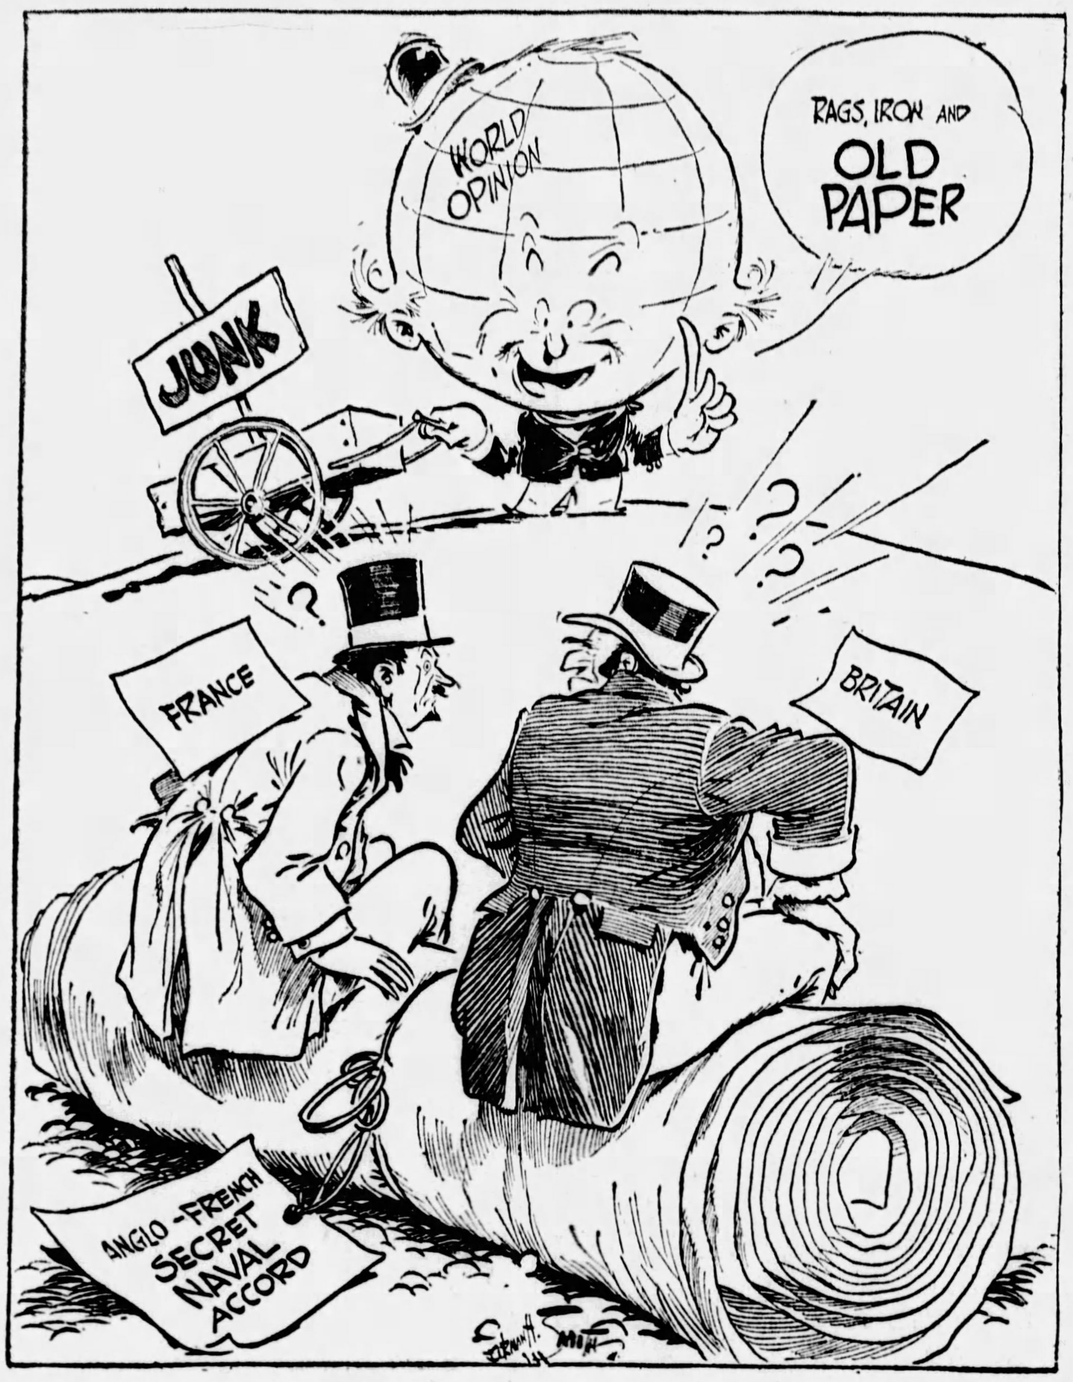
READY FOR THE SCRAP PILE!



THE Anglo-French whisper pact is dead. Like all dank things bred in the darkness, it could not survive the strong sunlight of an aroused public opinion, once it was dragged forth from its hiding place by the Hearst newspapers in their exclusive publication of its details.

It was a dangerous threat against the peace of the world; it was an insidious conspiracy to wreck disarmament hopes and aspirations and to hamstring Uncle Sam; it would have resulted in a world armed to the teeth on land and sea.

England, fearing the wrath of her people, has said, "We must find some other way."

With other historic "scraps of paper" it goes to the junk pile, where it belongs.

Tales That Are Told

Not Really Trying

AT a country fair five pounds was offered as a prize to the person who could guess the weight of a certain cow.

Crowds of people tried their skill and varied weights were suggested. Finally, Ild Garge, who was regarded as the village idiot, came forward. To their amazement he named the exact weight of the cow offhand.

"How did you do it?" asked the judge, after awarding the prize.

"'Twan't nothin'," replied the hero of the occasion modestly. "I'd 'a' done better'n that if I'd been trying."—London Answers.

He'd Left

A MAN was given a job at a siding running wagons down an incline. There was only a sleeper at the bottom to stop the wagons, and the manager told him to be careful and keep the brake on.

On the third day four wagons went down at terrific speed, jumped the sleeper and plunged into the canal.

The manager, anger written all over his face, rushed from his office. The employe, however, forestalled him.

"You needn't come grumblin' at me," he said. "I've left."—London Tit-Bits.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

SOME of these surgeons are gay dogs when it comes to kidding their customers. They will be whetting their long knives and looking you over for a likely place to start digging in, and they will be joking with you all the time.

Well, there was a kind of a serious-minded surgeon that had a patient that was an ambassador, and the surgeon thought he'd find out what the patient was interested in before he started kidding him. The doc was sharpening his knife, getting ready to whittle at the ambassador, and was talking all the time.

"Now, this here operation ain't a bit serious. I could do it with my hands tied behind me. And it won't hurt much. What do you think of the way the French ain't paying their debts?"

"I agree with you about that, absolutely," says the patient.

"Well, this here Chinese situation. What do you think about it?"

"Well, I think you're right about it. You got the same opinion as me."

"But I ain't said anything about my opinions, have I? How is it you agree with me about these things when you don't know what I think?"

"Well, you got the knife, and I ain't no fool, if I am an ambassador."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I'M interested in mothers—being one of them myself. I'm particularly interested in mothers of boys, for it seems to me that much of the folly and futility of human life arises from the wrong training which mothers give their sons.

They train boys to be careful, conscientious, courteous, cautious and to fear consequences.

Now these qualities are good qualities—in moderation.

Nice, negative virtues may keep you out of trouble—

But they will never boost you into success.

They may make you a Model Mamma—

But they will not make you a Powerful Papa.

You've got to put a lot more whoopee than that into your training if you want to Raise Your Boy to Be a Bouncer.

You must teach a boy to do two things if you would prepare him to meet his world.

YOU MUST TEACH HIM TO BELIEVE IN HIMSELF.

YOU MUST TEACH HIM TO LAUGH AT HIMSELF.

A SENSE OF PRIDE AND A SENSE OF HUMOR.

These two qualities a wise mother should plant in her son.

A sense of pride implies a proper appreciation of your own power and performance. It is not vanity nor conceit. It is rather a faith in the value and dignity of your own life, and its mysterious, latent powers. It is that fighting faith in one's own spirit which has lifted men from gutters to thrones.

A sense of humor implies a proper understanding of your place in the sun—AND THE OTHER FELLOW'S. It makes you grin when Fate has just knocked out your pet front tooth or broken your nice new heart. IT WILL ALSO KEEP YOU HUMBLE WHEN FAITH HASN'T KNOCKED OUT YOUR TOOTH OR BUSTED YOUR HEART—WHICH IS EQUALLY IMPORTANT AND MUCH MORE DIFFICULT.

Pride and humor—they are positive virtues. They have it all over the nice, negative, careful virtues.

ARE YOU PLANTING NEGATIVE OR POSITIVE VIRTUES IN YOUR BOY?

THE GORILLA

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE gorilla's jaws tell his story and reveal his nature. There Lavater's science of physiognomy makes no mistake. The gorilla is a feeder, and not a "sadique." A French explorer, Guy Babault, acquits the gorilla, on the evidence of African tribesmen living in the Beringe country, of any other motive in attacking human beings than that of hunger or brute anger.

"Their encounter with the natives," he says in La Nature, "is often the prelude to a rapid drama. A few days before my arrival in their country gorillas had torn to pieces four native women, whose remains were found scattered among the bushes where they had encountered the anthropoids."

Babault's account of the ways of the gorilla strikingly recalls what Paul du Chaillu told of them more than 60 years ago. He says:

"It seems to be generally the strongest male of a troupe who advances toward the enemy, offering himself for single combat by provoking the adversary with raucous and piercing cries and by striking on his breast, from below upward, producing a noise that causes the echoes of the forest to resound in a particular way, which the natives recognize as the worst of dangers."

Wiseacres who put theories above fact used to laugh at the similar descriptions given by Du Chaillu. Even men who call themselves scientists are not free from the habit of generalizing on insufficient evidence.

Babault adds that in case the leader of such an attack succeeds, new cries attract the rest of the band of gorillas, who stone (lapide) the inferior enemy. This alleged use of stones as weapons is another point on which there has been dispute.

The Eater.

The animals live in groups varying in number from three or four to more than twenty. They make their "randonnees" around a central point, where they often build a sort of nest, or more correctly, platform made by combining the branches of trees. Their raids may extend to considerable distance, and in places frequented by them they leave passages that facilitate penetration of the forest. Their ordinary food consists mainly of fruits, leaves and the bark of certain trees. The struggle for existence makes them redoubtable enemies for tribes living around the borders of the forest, where they sometimes commit depredations. One adult male killed by Babault measured over six feet in total length and five and a quarter feet around the chest. Approximate weight, 616 pounds—of course; what are those jaws for?

Bible Passages

Time and Chance

(Ecclesiastes 9; 11-19).

I RETURNED, and saw under the sun, that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, neither yet bread to the wise, nor yet riches to men of understanding, nor yet favour to men of skill; but time and chance happeneth to them all.

For man also knoweth not his time: as the fishes that are taken in an evil net, and as the birds that are caught in the snare; so are the sons of men snared in an evil time, when it falleth suddenly upon them.

This wisdom have I seen also under the sun, and it seemed great unto me:

There was a little city, and few men within it; and there came a great king against it, and besieged it, and built great bulwarks against it.

Now there was found in it a poor wise man, and he by his wisdom delivered the city; yet no man remembered that same poor man.

Then said I, Wisdom is better than strength: nevertheless the poor man's wisdom is despised, and his words are not heard.

The words of wise men are heard in quiet more than the cry of him that ruleth among fools.

Wisdom is better than weapons of war: but one sinner destroyeth much good.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Wood Fire

THE clouds hang low and through the room
Creeps bleak November's early gloom,
Sleet taps upon the window-pane
And bare trees bow to winter's reign.

But here a miracle is wrought,
For on the hearth dry logs have caught
And flared and flickered into flame
That makes dread winter but a name.

Dry logs have held the light and heat
Of sun that through the summer beat
In tropic wealth on wood and plain,
And stored it here to give again!

Treasured and hoarded, now that glow
Makes mockery of dark and snow
And brings sweet summer back once more,
Ardent and golden as before!

Isn't It So?

It's no credit to be good because you can't help it.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Back in the outland, the old-time peddler is almost a memory. In other days he roamed from town to town and door to door with his pack, selling almost everything from a needle to a washtub. He was in a way the news cryer in isolated neighborhoods.

In our town, Dr. Thompson used to sally forth in April with his magic eye salve and Indian root blood purifier afoot and returned with the November frost. In that time he covered four states. He built a fine home and left a considerable estate.

It is history that innumerable princes of success were former pack peddlers. Many of them today are stooped from their early burdens. The mail order business untrussed them, along with the automobile and other quick means of transportation.

Instead of the pack peddler the small town also has countless little specialty shops and roadside hutches. A few peddlers carry on with big motor trucks, but their number is rapidly diminishing. It was a picturesque calling that lost step with the times.

Strangely enough it is only in populous centers that the peddler is able to survive. There are hundreds of them in New York making their door to door canvasses and prospering. Almost every gigantic skyscraper office building has its warnings: "No Peddlers."

These are not the type belonging to the push-cart army of the lower East Side and uptown Ghettos. They do not carry the shoulder pack, but an elegant photographic sample book of their supplies. They are crisp types of alert salesmen.

The modern peddler is able to offer you copies of great paintings as well as second-hand automobiles. Many operate on the small payment plan and maintain large offices. The last of the old-time peddlers in the metropolis are the Armenian rug sellers and velvet-coated Italians selling statues.

These observations were inspired by a courtly gentleman who sent up one of those flossily-engraved visiting cards bearing only his name. He shook hands in the manner of an old friend, deposited himself in the best chair and it was 15 minutes before I was conscious he was the old-time peddler in a new setting. He had a leather compact that fitted snugly in his inside coat pocket containing his ware. And, of all things, he sold scarf pins. I gave him the address of a fellow who wears only bow ties.

Now and then one of those work-worn East Side push cart peddlers is escorted across town by a policeman. He is headed for a police station for not having a license. Able to speak but a few words of English, his bewilderment is pathetic. Especially when speakeasy patrons come to the doorways to watch and snicker.

A statistician discovers that few New York men marry if they have not marched to the altar before reaching the age of 35.

The dangerous age, so breach of promise records show, is between 45 and 50. It is after 45 that aging Romeos toss caution to the winds and fly to the amorous adventure. This is the age when they are likely to write those honeyed letters which are later read by 12 perfect strangers with a giggle and perhaps a sigh. The adroit gold digger with her red hot lips and air cooled knees is always angling for the bachelor nearing 50. He assays high in pure gold.

In a cafe one night recently a doddering philanderer was called to the telephone. A girl friend skipped over to his fair companion and inquired: "What time do you have to wheel him back to the Old Men's Home?"

"Just as soon as I can cry him out of a pint or so of pearls," was the retort.

In the same cafe one of those annoying waiter captains was making suggestions while we were trying to inspect the menu. There should be some way an adult person could order a meal all by himself. As one who does the eating, I am fairly obsessed with the quaint conceit I can do a major part of the thinking.

RIGHT ANGLES

By Alexander Cairns

AS a sop to my conscience, let me prelude this column today with the orthodox confession, mea culpa, I am guilty.

But even the guilty may glimpse goodnesss. I have heard a drunkard sermonize on sobriety with Niagara effect. Sing Sing might wax Demosthenic on squared-toed integrity and the lure of the way of holiness. And certainly a man whose biography has been smudged with hurry and worry may reach a literary hand to placidity and poetize on the adagio step.

First of all, will the officer please hold back that crowd who vainly imagine we are hereby opening a free pleasure park for the dallers of the town? They are as uninvited as a college yell at the morning mass. To operate on a man and take away his hurry-worry doesn't imply a removal of his pep and vim glands.

It may be as hyperbolic as a six-inch nose, but I am persuaded that nine-tenths of life's postponement is caused by the felon whom I am indicting herewith. Only the moderately deliberate can possibly suck the nectar from the day and drink the ambrosia of the hour.

Because the countless reactions to our multiform universe must be silently interpreted at the moment of their occurrence if we would know their pain or pleasure. Imagine a man on a china-shop-bull tantrum while going through the Uffizi Gallery in Florence. What can he possibly get from the masters hanging there? Michelangelo, Raphael, Corregio, Guilo, Fra Angelico and the rest?

But let him count every masterpiece a private shrine built to the dimensions of his own soul and let him linger there as a splotch of sunshine lingers in lovers' lane on a rare June day and he may emerge from the Uffizi younger by years and nobler by many biblical cubits.

Hurry is its own accuser. In the name of psychological common sense what can it mean but a rabid concern for the outcome of some venture? Tear away its mask and the face of Worry looks out at you with bloodshot eyes and lips with the nervous twitch of St. Vitus.

Ask the gods of the curb and the counting room how many and how often big ventures have been hopelessly and irretrievably ditched by an insane Hurry-Worry in pants. Deals that need all the digits for counting are deeds of deliberate diplomacy, such diplomacy indeed as would qualify one to serve as plenipotentiary to a rival national power.

Nor is finance alone in demanding minds with softly purring balance wheels, but art, too, is eloquent of this virtue. Indeed the only place left open for Hurry-Worry is track inspector before the Twentieth Century Limited. And even there he might overlook an open switch.

Suppose we ask Henry Ward Beecher to pronounce the benediction: "It is not work that kills men: it is worry. Work is healthy: you can hardly put more upon a man than he can bear. Worry is rust upon the blade."

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

HE was about to board the Century for Chicago. He took another look at his tickets. "The last time I went to Chicago," said he, "I sent my stenographer for my transportation and told her to get reservations on either the Century or the Broadway Limited. I didn't care which. And she came back with tickets on the Century and a compartment on the Broadway."

"Did you get away all right?"

"No, I figured that would be too much of a stretch."

On the same platform was a woman who was ticketed for the third section of the train.

"They shoulda told me I was on the third and I'd have changed it or took an upper till it got started and then got better. They oughten to do that to a customer. Putting me on the third section!"

"But," said the porter, "it's as good as either of the others; it's just another section, lady, but it's not any different."

"It's not the first, so it ain't as good," said the lady, who wanted her money's worth. "It makes me mad!"

Silence.

"How many cars on this train?"

"Four," said the red cap.

"Then why don't they take two and put on each of the other sections, and make only two trains?"

"They pick up cars from Boston, lady," said the patient red cap.

"How many?"

"Two."

"Well, why can't they put one of those on each train, too?"

The porter heard someone calling him and ducked.

And on her hat that woman wore a great big, bright-colored BLUEBIRD.

It was a very large car with many windows. One of the best makes, and shiny and new. A woman at the wheel. Place, New York. Every window, every little tiny window, had one full pair of dotted swiss curtains—WITH TINY RUFFLES! They were looped back with white cord and tassels. I'll jump off this building, and it is high, if I am exaggerating.

It couldn't have happened in Pee Wee Valley, Ky., or in Little Rock, Ark., or in Pueblo, Col., but in a smart town like New York there are just all kinds of people. Nobody knows where they come from.

An Englishman said that in the Bronx he saw a lady pushing a baby buggy, and it had a regular sedan top, made with glass windows all curtained, and entirely enclosing the baby. The fact that such buggies are intended to give the child air mattered not to his mother, who wanted to do something spectacular with her money.

A lady on a fast train making up her face to give the passengers a treat at breakfast. She was very blonde and very young and only fairly good looking, but she was a wow. About as quiet in her tastes as an explosion in a paint factory. She became so interested in painting her face that she forgot that railroads have curves, and that a berth has no front protection, and suddenly she fell smack into the aisle with only her meagers on.
